GIRL RESCUED IN CULVERT

Two views of Spot Pond Brook, showing where four-year-old Olive Doherty tumbled into the rushing stream and the spot 400 yards away where she was snatched from death by John Powell, who plunged in and seized the little girl as the current swept her into his reach. Above is Olive, the rescued girl and Esther (inset), her six-year-old sister, a witness of the near tragedy.

After being drawn down in a whirlpool, then swept along on the rushing current of a covered stream, under three buildings and a highway, four-year-old Olive Doherty, of No. 41 Sherman street, Malden, owes her life today to John Powell, of No. 25 Middlesex road, Malden.

Powell breasted the waters of Spot Pond Brook and reached the drowning child as she was being swept into that part of the brook where the exhaust steam pipes from Malden Electric Company enter the water.

Olive and her six-year-old sister, Esther, were playing on Exchange

THOUSANDS MADE IDLE BY FLOOD

Merrimack Highest in Twenty Years, and Employes Are Driven From Mills

More than 6,000 mill workers in Lawrence were thrown out of employment today when the overflowing of the Merrimack River flooded basements in the Pacific, Brightwood Manufacturing Company, Plymouth and Kunhardt mills and Sutton mills in Andover.

Factories employing several thousand employes in Haverhill and Lowell face a shutdown unless the river recedes at once. The water in each city has reached the highest point in twenty years.

Occupants of cottages on the Merrimack between Lawrence and Haverhill have been forced to use rowboats to get from their dwellings to the highways, many of which are flooded to a depth of three feet at points.

Several million dollars damage has been caused by the floods in different parts of New England the last two days. The situation is still serious.

At many points the rivers are being pushed to greater heights as their tributaries, swollen by continued rains and fed by melting snows in the mountain districts, pour in their waters. It is estimated that the high point on some of the streams will not be reached before tomorrow.

Maine is the heaviest sufferer, the network of streams throughout the State being out of bounds and the innumerable lakes and ponds sending down volumes of water that have turned dams and bridges into matchwood and swept away many millions of feet of lumber and pulpwood.

HIGHWAYS FLOODED.

In the valleys of the Connecticut and Merrimack Rivers and their tributaries in New Hampshire and Vermont, the damage has been marked, but highways have been flooded and lowland farms covered with mud and water and in many cases isolated.

Rodolph Fails to Dance! the Cause: 2,000 Women

Lawrence, May 1.—Rodolph Valentino rolled into the city in a private Pullman, slicked all up for his dance act and whizzed over the Merrimack Park in a big machine, but—

Rodolph and Winifred did not dance. Why? Because of the women. How they pestered the great screen lover!

The police say there were close to 2,000 of them packed in the dancing pavilion until there was not a square foot of room left for Rodolph and Winifred.

After two hours of jamming by police in effectual attempts to clear the hall, Rodolph quit in disgust.

ELECTRICAL WORKERS STRIKE IN SALEM

Salem, May 1.—Seventy-five electrical workers of local 253 went on strike today, affecting the North Shore district. The trouble is over the demand by journeymen to be allowed to act as salesmen for supplies while at work on a job, in order to get the commission. One dollar an hour for an eight hour day and 44-hour week had already been agreed on.

LAST FIGHT TO SAVE LIFE OF SLAYER

Counsel Seeks Revocation of Death Sentence in Sensational Legal Battle

A legal fight, unprecedented in this State and, it is believed, in this country, was made today to save Paul Pappas from the electric chair.

His counsel, John F. Feeney, filed a motion in Superior Court asking that the death sentence be set aside on the ground that District Attorney Thomas C. O'Brien had on Saturday agreed to nolle prosse the indictment charging murder in the first degree, and to accept a plea of guilty to murder in the second degree.

This would automatically remove the death penalty.

On the other hand, it is impossible

ICE BARRIER SHUTS MONTREAL GATEWAY

North Sydney, N. S., May 1.—An impenetrable barrier of ice has been flung across Cabot Strait, the central entrance to the Gulf of St. Lawrence. It will be five days at least before navigation is open through this gateway to Quebec and Montreal. The other entrances, the Straits of Belle Isle and the Strait of Canso, are also closed by a great field of ice.

BOYCOTT CUTS SALE OF SUGAR

By HARRY A. BENWELL.

The boycott on sugar profiteers, which is sweeping the country, gained tremendous impetus in Boston and New England today.

Retail sugar prices continued at 11 cents in Greater Boston stores despite the decided slump in buying admitted by clerks and despite a slight decrease in wholesale prices, which came as the first result of the country-wide crusade.

With Governor Cox and Mayor Curley lending their personal sup-

Jail 'Em for One Year, Says "Dry Law" Volstead

St. Paul, Minn., May 1.—Minimum jail sentences of one year for violators of the liquor laws were advocated today by Andrew J. Volstead, author of the prohibition act.

The eighteenth amendment would have been functioning perfectly long ago if lawbreakers had not been dealt with so leniently by the courts, Volstead said.

MISSING LOWELL GIRL FOUND HERE

Beatrice Tyson, seventeen, missing from her home in Lowell for one week, is at Joy street police station today awaiting the arrival of her parents. The girl wandered into the American House and related a pitiful story to the night clerk about not having any home or money. She begged for a room. This was given her. The police were notified.

PAPPAS TAKEN FROM DEATH CELL AS FIGHT FOR LIFE GOES ON

MOVE STARTS AT ONCE TO KEEP HIM FROM THE CHAIR

to set aside a sentence of death without the consent of a majority of the Governor's Council.

But to offset this, Governor Cox and his council meets tomorrow.

In Attorney Feeney's motion he says:

"April 28, 1923, the district attorney for the County of Suffolk, duly filed and entered a nolle prosequi on that part of said indictment charging the defendant with murder in the first degree.

"That the defendant in writing duly consented to the action of the district attorney in not further prosecuting and asking for sentence on that part of the indictment against him which charges a higher crime than murder in the second degree.

WANTS SENTENCE REVOKED.

"The action of the district attorney in prosecuting said written instrument, assigning his reasons for not further prosecuting or asking for sentence upon that part of the indictment which charges a higher crime than murder in the second degree, and the written consent by the defendant of said action, were all drawn as the result of a conference between the presiding justice, the district attorney and the counsel for the defendant.

"Subsequently, the Court declined to rectify the case of the district attorney and the defendant respecting the said nolle prosequi as herein before referred to. The said nolle prosequi has never been revoked.

"The Court then required the defendants to proceed with the hearing of the defendant's motion for new trial, which thereafterwards was denied. Wherefore, the defendant prays that the sentence of death hereafter imposed be revoked."

O'BRIEN'S STATEMENT.

District Attorney O'Brien's nolle prosequi on which Attorney Feeney centred his fight to save Pappas, read as follows:

"In the case of the Commonwealth vs. Paul Descalakis, otherwise called Paul Pappas (No. 425 of 1922), in which said Paul Descalakis has been indicted and convicted for the murder of one Alice Arsenault on December 26, 1919, I will no further prosecute or ask for sentence on such part of the indictment as charges a higher crime than murder in the second degree; but I will prosecute and ask for sentence in that part of the indictment which charges murder in the second degree.

"My reasons for taking such action are as follows:

"A careful examination of the trial record and of the other facts which have now been brought to my attention confirms a judgment that I had formed preliminary to the trial, that the killing of Alice Arsenault was in hot blood and the result of a quarrel; that the killing in all reasonable probability lacked the element of premeditation; and that all the facts in my possession warrant me in reaching the conclusion that the murder was not committed with extremes atrocity and cruelty."

(Signed) THOMAS C. O'BRIEN.

Back of Feeney's motion are revealed circumstances of a dramatic conference held Saturday, which did not enter into the records.

Present at this conference were: Feeney, O'Brien, Assistant District Attorney Fielding and Judge Keating. It was during this conference that Father Alexopoulos, the Greek priest, who has labored unceasingly in behalf of Pappas, was called in.

O'Brien agreed to nolle prosse the first degree murder section of the indictment. This was put up to Alexopolous, who in turn was requested to put it up to Pappas, with the consent of Feeney.

AGREEMENT BY PAPPAS.

The consent signed by Pappas was offered by Feeney today as part of his petition. It read:

"I consent to the action of the district attorney in not further prosecuting or asking for sentence on that part of the indictment against me charging a higher crime than murder in the second degree; and I consent to the action of the district attorney in prosecuting and asking for sentence on that part of the indictment against me which charges murder in the second degree; and I give my consent without prejudice to any right which I may have to petition the Governor and Council for a pardon on the ground that I am innocent."

(Signed) Paul Descalakis.

Feeney figures that the agreement of the district attorney to nolle prosse on the first degree murder section of the indictment is grounds —legal grounds—for a revocation of the death sentence.

There is a delicate question of law involved. Has a district attorney the right to nolle prosse any part of an indictment after sentence has been passed? That is up to the courts to decide. In the meantime, Pappas is supposed to die before dawn tomorrow.

WARDEN IN DOUBT.

Here other complications enter. Warden Hendry was under the impression that Pappas was to die sometime during May 2. He has tried to get instructions on this point in order to summon the executioner from Sing Sing, and to arrange for the necessary witnesses.

As the warden is attempting to arrange his end of the case, the court is considering the motion for a writ of habeas corpus which will take Pappas again out of the death cell and into court.

It is by no means certain that Pappas will then return to the death cell.

Revocation of the death sentence on the motion of Feeney may save him. A reprieve from the Governor can do it. The granting of Feeney's exceptions to the decision of Judge Keating can do it. Pappas's willingness to plead guilty to murder in the second degree, if he can be induced to change his mind, may do it.

DRAMATIC BATTLE.

However the courts may feel, whatever public opinion may be, his fellow prisoners grouned when they heard that Pappas was again in Cell No. 1 of the Death House.

It has been a strange, lean, game of chess, this Pappas case, with death the referee and the electric chair as the strategic pawn in the game.

A short time ago the chair was primed to receive its victim. The executioner had come on from New York State. Witnesses had been summoned. Pappas had been given the outfit of underwear and the new trousers, the gifts of the State to those about to die.

Then Attorney John W. Schenck, Pappas's negro lawyer, had made a canny move. The pawns shifted. Pappas was taken out of the cell, but not to the chair. Instead, he found himself, dazed, seated in a courtroom in Pemberton square. He listened without comprehension to wordy arguments on legal technicalities. He watched with apathy the apparent perplexity of Judge Braley. He heard Judge Braley say that the legal point in question was one for the full bench of the Supreme Court to ponder.

FEENEY TAKES CHARGE.

Even then he did not know that his life, trembling in the balance, had been saved. It was only when Judge Braley summoned him from the dock to his bench, and painstakingly explained the case to him, that Pappas knew he would not have to die that day, as scheduled.

May 2 was the date set as the deferred date for the execution. A new lawyer came into the case—John P. Feeney. Feeney and his associate, James Kenney, labored night and day and dug up evidence they thought would convince Keating, first at the murder trial.

But it didn't.

For a while it seemed that the doom of Pappas had been sealed.

The game of chess is still in progress.

PLEDGE TO BOYCOTT SUGAR AND PETITION TO PRESIDENT

WE desire to enroll in the war against the sugar profiteers.

In protest against the robbery which they have perpetrated on us, we hereby pledge ourselves to reduce to the minimum our use of sugar and sweets until sugar has come down to a reasonable price.

We call upon the President of the United States and the Department of Justice to apprehend and punish the big interests who cornered the Cuban sugar crop and put up the prices, and not simply prosecute the poor dupes who executed their orders on the New York Sugar Exchange.

Pending the completion of these legal proceedings, we respectfully petition the President of the United States to issue a proclamation calling upon the people to restrict their use of sugar until it returns to the price of 7 cents retail.

We beg the assistance of our President in saving the $400,000,000 which the sugar profiteers will take from our pockets if sugar does not go back from 11 cents to a fair and decent price.

SUGAR-BUYING CUT BY HUB BOYCOTT

port of the campaign, embattled housewives were busy organizing their forces to beat the sugar speculators.

While the government's suit to dissolve the Sugar Exchange was getting underway in New York, women's organizations here were enlisting under the banners of the sugar boycotters.

A number of large organizations have swung into line, and many more are expected to join the country-wide movement inaugurated by the Hearst newspapers.

HUB WOMEN ENROLL.

Mrs. E. W. Schermerhorn, executive secretary of the Women's Educational and Industrial Union, will take up the boycott with her executive committee today.

The members of the Women's Trade Union League will be asked to join the boycott by Mrs. Maud Wiley Van Vorenewyck today.

On Thursday the annual meeting of the New England Conference of Club Women takes place, at which time it is expected all the delegates will be asked to get in line by Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole of Brockton, the president.

Mrs. T. G. Winter, president of the National Federation of Women's Clubs, has given her endorsement of the movement, as have twelve Governors of States, nearly a round dozen U. S. Senators and many local legislators.

Mrs. R. T. Payne, 2nd, of Brookline, head of the Women's Municipal League, said she would ask the members of that organization at the next meeting to join the sugar boycott movement.

Mrs. Ida M. Hebbard, president of the Housekeepers' League, with a membership of 5,000 women, said that many of the members have cut down their sugar consumption fully one-half.

COX AND CURLEY.

Shortly after Governor Cox announced that his family was restricted to not more than four pounds of sugar at any one time, Mayor Curley issued a proclamation that a rigid boycott be maintained in Boston.

In the meantime while Eugene C. Hultman, chairman of the Commission on the Necessaries of Life, was fighting with the Government forces in New York, the battle to save the commission was successful.

Mrs. T. G. Winter Mrs. Grace Poole

EXPECT QUICK RESULT.

Although the government proceedings may be long-drawn-out and tedious, the boycott, according to experts, will bring the sugar profiteers to time shortly.

From all sides officials of cities, States and the nation are sending in their endorsements of the boycott, which they declare is the only movement that can be effective.

It is expected that action will be taken on the bill introduced in the Legislature by Representative Canty of Jamaica Plain, calling on Attorney General Benton to take action against sugar profiteers.

INVITED TO JOIN.

In the meantime housewives are urged to join the steadily growing army of boycotters. Sign the Boston American's petition, get your friends to sign, and mail the petitions to the Sugar Petition Editor, Boston American.

At the same time, cut down on your sugar purchase as much as possible, together with the purchases of candy, pastry and sweets.

ITALIAN "REDS" SHOT IN MAY DAY RIOTS

Rome, May 1 (By the Associated Press).—Two Communists were killed and several others wounded in a conflict with a national militia force at Milan this forenoon when a band of Communists attempted to prevent the railwaymen from working, according to a semi-official account of the incident.

Americans Fully Employed, Pass Quiet May Day

Washington, May 1.—As European governments shivered in anticipation of bloody strife and riotous May Day demonstrations the great mass of American workers fully employed at good wages went about their own business and paid no attention to troubles overseas.

Order Prevails in World's Big Cities

London, May 1.— May Day passed quietly in England although there was a demonstration in the Hyde Park, near Buckingham palace. Communists held a big parade. There was a demonstration in front of the Japanese embassy in protest against Japanese policy towards Russia, but it passed off quietly.

Madrid, May 1 (By International News Service).—All the soldiers in Paris were confined to their barracks today for emergency in event of May Day riots. All factories were idle and the workers concentrated in various points where speeches were made. All taxi drivers quit for the day.

Boston Police on Guard Against Extremists

Though no trouble is expected every policeman in Boston who is physically able is on duty today as a precaution against May Day demonstrations of political radicals.

Extra guards are posted at churches which have been threatened, and all public buildings are being closely watched for suspicious persons.

Plain clothes detectives are patrolling those sections of the city in which radicals are known to live. Machine guns, ready for action, have been installed in the police stations of those districts with reserves on hand to man them.

An extra heavy guard has been placed along the waterfront at the request of the shipping interests because of the attempt of the International Workers of the World to put a strike for more wages into effect.

Esther's screams attracted men and women to the brook. Olive had disappeared in a culvert passing under three buildings and under Middlesex street.

Spectators ran to the culvert opening and saw the form of Olive tossing in rushing water. Powell jumped into the brook at a point several feet downstream and just had time to brace himself against the force of the current when Olive was swept into his reach. Refuses to Desert Her Old Home for Mansion

By Cosmopolitan News Service.

New York, May 1.—A $80,000 mansion and all the luxuries wealth can put into it, proved insufficient today to lure Mrs. John McKeefrey from old neighborhood ties and lifelong friendships.

She has chosen to stay in her old Brooklyn home where she and her husband and her children lived when they were poor—long before John made a success of building theatres.

"Here we know everybody worth knowing and everybody knows us," she said.

A married daughter has moved into the new mansion which was built to house the parents as well as their children's families.

MILLIONS LOST IN N. E. FLOODS

At Lawrence the Merrimack reached its highest mark in twenty years early today. There were nearly 8½ feet of water flowing over the dam at 8 o'clock and the water was still rising.

Two North Andover mills were forced to shut down in part. The property damage will be small. Riverview street, North Andover, is under a foot of water in some parts.

At Nashua, N. H., flood water in the Merrimack reached its highest stage since 1898 at 2 o'clock today. Backing into the Nashua River Basin, it flooded the basement of the Jackson Cotton Mills, necessitating removal of electric motors and compensators. The bridge over the Salmon brook, near the American Woolen Company's plant, was weakened by the high water, and Boston & Maine officials detoured Nashua-to-Boston trains via Ayer.

At Manchester, N. H., the Merrimack River, which overflowed its banks yesterday, causing mills almost its banks to shut down, flooding much property, resulting in thousands of dollars loss, today receded several inches. Veteran river men say the danger is over. Reports received at the Boston & Maine Railroad offices here from division points in New Hampshire indicated some improvement along its lines today.

The Connecticut River at Turner's Falls has gained six inches since yesterday, seven and one-half feet being the height of the water passing over the dam of the Turners Falls Company today. Officials looked for a drop in the next twenty-

New Brunswick Rivers Still Rising; Loss of $1,000,000

St. John, N. B., May 1.—A cotton mill at Milltown, on the St. Croix River, has been damaged by floods to the extent of $200,000, while lumber companies have sustained serious loss through the breaking of booms.

Service on both the Canadian Pacific and the Canadian National Railway lines is at a standstill.

Rivers continued to rise during the night. The property loss already totals more than $1,000,000.

At Milltown the waters rose to the highest point on record. Dwellings were abandoned and occupants were taken in boats from upper-story windows.

FILES DEMAND IN LOVE THEFT SUIT

Mrs. Faloney Mrs. McIntyre

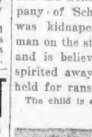
A motion asking for particulars has been filed in Middlesex Superior Court by Mrs. Helen Faloney, who came into the spotlight recently when she was sued for $20,000 by Mrs. Minnie F. McIntyre of Somerville. Mrs. McIntyre charged in her suit that Mrs. Faloney stole her husband's affections.

All kinds of charges have been hurled back and forth by the two women since the filing of the suit. Mrs. McIntyre declared that her husband, after meeting Mrs. Faloney used to torture her by playing "Why Should I Cry Over You" on the phonograph.

KIDNAPER IS HUNTED BY RADIO

Verner Alexanderson, six years old, son of Ernest Alexanderson, radio engineer of the American Radio Corporation and the General Electric Company of Schenectady, N. Y., was kidnaped by a strange man on the streets of that city, and is believed to have been spirited away to Boston to be held for ransom.

The child is a nephew of J. Garfield Stone of Windsor avenue, Watertown, assistant purchasing agent of the Boston Elevated Railway Company. Verner usually spent his Summers at the Watertown home of his uncle.



Verner Alexanderson.

News of the kidnaping of the boy reached his uncle by radio. A description of the lad was broadcasted by the General Electric Company's station at Schenectady.

ALARM BY RADIO.

J. B. Miller of School street, Watertown, a neighbor, and friend of Mr. Stone, picked up the broadcast on his home radio set and notified Mr. Stone.

Mr. Stone got in telephonic communication with the father and the Schenectady police and learned the details of the kidnapping.

The boy, with his sister, Edith, eleven, and Gertrude, seven, was playing in front of their home, according to the latter, when a young man, who previously had told them he would give them some rabbits, told the girls to "get a box for the bunnies," took Verner by the hand and started down the street.

The girls returned with a box, but the man and their brother had disappeared.

STARTS FOR BOSTON.

A wide search for the miscreant was begun by the New York State police. The Schenectady authorities told Mr. Stone they believed the kidnaper started to Boston, where, the police said, they thought the boy would be held for ransom. The boy's father is well-to-do.

The Boston police were asked to co-operate in a search for the little prisoner and the public were urged by radio to be on the lookout for him.

The kidnaper has been described to the Boston police as between twenty-eight and thirty years of age, of medium height and build, with a small moustache, wearing a dark pin stripe suit and black derby.

The child is of light complexion with blond bobbed hair, gray eyes, and when last seen was wearing a blue sailor suit with sailor hat with 3 band having "U. S." on the front.

FREED OF MURDER; TO WED LOYAL GIRL

New York, May 1.—Acquitted of the murder of Private Martin Miller, whom he shot at Miller Field, Staten Island, last March, Sergeant Claude Forget of the Army Tank Corps announced today he would quit the service as soon as he could, and marry Miss Frances Buhl of Irvington, N. J.

Miss Buhl was the most demonstrative person in the courtroom when the jury's verdict was read. She rushed over to Foster, threw her arms around his neck and kissed him.

WIRTH SLATED AS ENVOY TO FRANCE

Berlin, May 1.—Former Chancellor Joseph Wirth, who is now a deputy in the Reichstag, and known as the "Full invec Chancellor," because of his policy while at the head of the government, it is reliably stated, will be made Ambassador to Paris if the present plans of the Cuno cabinet are carried out. Ambassador Mayer was withdrawn because of the Ruhr invasion and later died from an operation at a Munich Hospital.

PEGGY DAVIS WILL SACRIFICE CAREER TO MARRY HER "BILLY"

CALLS HIM 'ONLY MAN IN WORLD'

Follies Girl Ready to Marry Soon as Mother's Objections Are Overcome

By Cosmopolitan News Service.

New York, May 1.—"I love Billy. I am willing to sacrifice everything to become his bride—my stage ambition, my promising movie career—just to marry him. But I must bring my mother around to my point of view."

Peggy Davis, show girl, thus summed up the situation today in her affair with Napoleon A. Worthington, stock broker and scion of old Baltimore families, known to his intimates as "Billy."

Peggy arrived from Boston after her attempt to be married to Worthington was frustrated.

"I know full well Billy is the only man in the world for me," she said. "And I will marry him just as soon as my mother's objections are overcome."

MOTHER STATES VIEWS.

Mrs. Capitola Laird explained her objections to the match today.

"My daughter has only known this man for three months," she declared. "I understand he comes from a good Southern family. Such people are apt to look down on any one on the stage. They have the idea a good girl cannot be a cabaret or show girl.

"If my daughter marries him without knowing his family, her lot may be hard. If they get to know her first, they will know she is a good girl in every sense of the word. I advised Peggy against marrying Dan Grafton. Later we found he had many wives. I am glad I was able to stop the wedding in Boston."

Partners to Block "Billy's" Marriage to Show Girl

Business associates of Napoleon A. Worthington, scion of an aristocratic family of Baltimore landowners, object to his affair with Peggy Davis, "Follies" show girl.

He is being subjected to close scrutiny by his partners, who declare his love ventures here with the danseuse is ill-timed, and who declare they will not permit him to marry her if there is any way to prevent him.

"There won't be any marriage, because we won't permit it," said his business associates in unison. "He's just kidding her about marriage anyway. He's crazy over her all right, but the publicity is mighty undesirable."

"BILLY," IN BOSTON.

Worthington, familiarly known as "Billy," is in Boston with M. B. Gardner, one of his own ultra-social set in Maryland, and Ed. Blondell, to capitalize a business for purchasing, improving and ultimately reaping a profit on a choice bit of downtown property.

But Billy "put his foot in it," say his associates, when he burst forth in the news columns with his career and family linked with those of Mary Margaret Laird, otherwise Peggy Davis.

"When we produced newspaper clippings," said Gardner, "in which Peggy told of her marriage at thirteen to Lieutenant Colonel Davies, and how she tore open a telegram one day and discovered that Davies' real wife had given birth to twins, well Billy capitulated then. He knew about her second marriage to Don Grafton, Pittsburgh gentleman, who had three wives already when he married her.

"FOOLED ABOUT MARRIAGE."

"Billy taxied over to Commonwealth avenue then from the Westminster and saw Peggy. She may hang on to him but you know she hasn't any money.

"He fooled her about a marriage in Boston. Managed to be late for the ceremony twice before, you know. She tells about that. Last month they were to run away to Salisbury, Maryland, and tie up. Train left at 11:10 and Bill leaped breathlessly from a taxi at 11:11. Too bad and all that, but it caused the necessary postponement.

"Billy and I have known many actresses, among them Peggy Joyce, internationally known collector of wealthy husbands. Just a good friend, though.

ANGERED PEGGY.

"The Century Roof in Baltimore, where Peggy danced, was the first scene with Peggy Davis. It was last November. Every night Bill was there to see her. But I, his friend, went too and brought two girls. Bill always accepted my invitations to sit with us and was kind enough to relieve me of the extra girl, as intended, of course.

"Peggy's dancing would soon be disregarded, as the evening wore on, and that made her mighty sore.

"When her period at the Roof was over, Peggy stayed in Baltimore to be with Bill. Then came their first attempt at marriage, the discovery that she was, as she says, only seventeen, and Billy's narrow escape, followed quickly by more escapes.

FOLLIES GIRL IN ROMANCE

PEGGY DAVIS, WHOSE WEDDING TO "BILLY" WORTHINGTON WAS HALTED

"Billy's only twenty-six and a corking good fellow. Father is J. Dorsey Worthington, wealthy retired farmer and owner of lots of real estate. Bill's parents will raise holy smoke over this romance."

CHELSEA YOUTH IS ATTACKED BY DOG

Tripole Guerra, eleven, was roller skating with a number of his companions before his home, No. 193 Chelsea street, East Boston, when a dog leaped at him. Terrified, the boy attempted to escape, and with his chums raced down the street. The dog overtook the little fellow and bit him in the back. Excited neighbors chased the dog away. Passersby took the youngster to East Boston Relief Hospital, where his wounds were cauterized.

The dog said by police to be the property of Carmella Alaura of No. 196 Chelsea street, will be examined for traces of rabies.

GARLAND'S WIFE REFUSES TO SHARE HIM

Buzzards Bay, May 1.—Mrs. Charles Garland refused to live with her eccentric husband at "April Farm" in North Carver as long as the three bob-haired girls who are helping him solve the problems of the universe remain there.

Charles evidently made this provision as the price of reconciliation, according to her friends. At any rate his relapse into normal was short-lived. He seemingly weighed his communistic devotion and spiritual affinity, whatever that be, of the radical trio against the companionship and love of his wife and two children, and the former won him back.

Mrs. Charles Garland.

Normal existence of two days in the week since the reconciliation with his wife was not for Garland. Now he is reported to be as firm as ever in his belief that such a life is contrary to nature. Mrs. Garland is perfectly willing to endure the discomforts and inconveniences of his ramshackle dwelling at North Carver, but not merely as one of four comrades of the same sex. There fore, according to the Garland theory, she is old-fashioned, mid-Victorian, unprogressive and prejudiced.

Garland, however, is willing to visit his wife whenever she desires him to—but that's all. Meanwhile his three comrades are expecting the arrival of his mother, Mrs. Mary Judor Garland-Greene-Hale, anticipating a veritable feast in the doctrine of freedom of expression. Swinburne Hale, the poet and third husband of the mother, is reported as rebellious at her views on freedom after two years of married life. And Swinburne is some radical himself.

HEAVY BAIL FOR 3 GIRLS UP FOR SHOPLIFTING

Bail aggregating $7,000 was ordered by Judge Michael J. Murray of Municipal Court today for three girls, charged with shoplifting. They were arrested by Inspector William Pelton of headquarters, after, it is alleged, they "lifted" dresses valued at $225 from department stores.

When the girls were lined up at headquarters, three female detectives of the Stores' Mutual Protective Association recognized one of them as Clara Miller of Huntington avenue, who defaulted in Brighton court last October, where she was held for a similar offence.

The Miller girl is also known, according to the police, as Rebecca Schwarz and Mrs. Jackson. She was arrested in October under the latter name and merchandise valued at $600, and said to be the property of Boston stores, was found in her room.

The other girls are: Clara Rosso, Shirley avenue, Revere, and Beverly Williams of Peterboro street, Back Bay. Police stated that the addresses are fictitious.

DEATH THREATS HAVE NO TERROR FOR JUANITA HANSEN

ARMED MEN GUARD MOVIE STAR FROM DOPE RING

By JUANITA HANSEN.

Not all the letters that I receive as a result of my series of stories on the drug traffic are from fans.

I have received a number of letters, all anonymous, which were in a threatening vein. Two of them threatened to cause my death if I persisted in exposing the drug traffic.

Juanita Hansen.

Ever since I started the series of stories in the Boston American I have been hounded by persons who called me on the telephone, followed me to and from the theatre and in other ways attempted to keep tabs on me.

It may interest these persons to know that wherever I go I am followed, at a discreet distance, by two Federal men, armed, who are prepared to see that I am not molested in any way. I also wish to take this public method of warning all those who seem determined to "get me" that all the facts and figures which I have accumulated since I saved myself from the drug habit are locked in a safety deposit vault, and that the work will go on whether I do or not.

I have been requested by many people to answer questions in this column. It would be impossible for me to do this, as I receive from a hundred to two hundred letters a day.

MOTHERS EAGER.

Still, I am most anxious to answer questions.

Last week, during my engagement at the Bowdoin Square, I gave a special talk to women only, and I was amazed when I found there were over six hundred women in the audience, all of whom showed the greatest interest in my talk.

These were not morbid women, lured by curiosity, nor flappers who wanted to get a thrill. Most of them were mothers who wanted to find out about the drug evil in order to protect their daughters.

The stories that were told to me there were privileged, and I cannot divulge them here. But they convinced me that EVERY MOTHER IN MASSACHUSETTS should acquaint herself with the facts in the case of The People vs. Dope, in the interest of public welfare and for the protection of their young daughters. The prime evil of drugs is the insidious manner in which they manage to enslave the victims.

It is no longer a subject which must be discussed in whispers. The public now realizes that before we can eliminate the evil of narcotics we must discuss it with the utmost frankness.

MEETING FOR WOMEN

Tomorrow at eleven I will hold another special meeting for women. This will take place at the National Theatre, Tremont and Berkeley streets, at eleven o'clock. I will be glad to answer any questions at this meeting, which will be thrown open to a general discussion.

Since my stay in Boston I have made an exhaustive study of the drug situation in this city, and in further articles will relate some of the things I have discovered along these lines.

ASSERTS GENIUS CAN BE MADE HEREDITARY

London, May 1. (By International News Service)—Dr. Paul Kammerer, famous Viennese scientist, lecturing at Cambridge University today, said he believed he had discovered a method by which the good qualities of a man cultivates in his lifetime can be communicated through heredity. "It is possible through experimenting to make genius 'hereditary,' said Dr. Kammerer. "I believe the beautiful ideals of parents can be made to become instincts in their children." Dr. Kammerer exhibited blind newts which had grown eyes under treatment.

FATHER LYNCH HAS FIREMAN'S FUNERAL

The chaplain of Boston Fire Department has answered his last alarm.

The men he prayed and risked his life for today buried Rev. Dennis J. Lynch in Holy Cross Cemetery, Malden.

They paid final tribute to the only clergyman of this city who was ever accorded the highest honor in the gift of firemen—a gold service ladge.

There was a solemn high mass of requiem in St. Leo's Church, Edmond street, Dorchester, where Father Lynch was assistant pastor.

Headed by Commissioner Theodore E. Glynn and Chief John O. Tabor, 300 firemen in uniform filed into the church and after the service formed a lane outside through which the casket was carried to the hearse. Then they escorted the cortege down Edmond street to Harvard street, to Dowdoin street to Geneva avenue.

The church was filled to overflowing. There were present many persons of prominence in various walks of the life. Rev. John P. Cronin of Beachmont was celebrant of the mass. Rev. E. Ambrose Gallagher of St. Leo's Church was the deacon and Rev. James Hurley of Malden was sub-deacon. Rev. James P. Condon of the Church of the Assumption of East Boston preached the sermon.

The honorary bearers were all members of the Holy Name Society of his parish. They were Bernard Heaney, the president, Eugene J. Feeley, William J. Finnigan, John Martin, William J. Callahan, James E. McMurray, John Swan and Henry J. Rockett.

Will Raise Rats to Feed Cats to Feed Rats--a Skin Game

By Cosmopolitan News Service.

New York, May 1.—The cat and rat ranch of ancient fame is today to be turned into a $10,000,000 reality, that is, if the garment trade complies with the request to buy that much stock.

If you remember, the hoary old story ran something like this:

A rancher raised cats and rats for their skins. He fed the rats on the skinned cats, and the cats on the skinned rats. Between skinnings he himself lived in luxury.

Now a syndicate has been formed to start a ranch near Jacksonville, Fla., to raise rats—just to feed cats. The first year should yield 12,000,000 skins, the promoters said, and each skin ought to bring from 10 to 75 cents.

One banker knows of a man who once invested $5,000 in this scheme.

ABANDON HOPE FOR 7 IN CREW OF SEACONNET

New Bedford, May 1.—Hope has been abandoned for the rescue of seven members of the crew of the ill fated freighter Seaconnet, who are believed to have drowned when the vessel sank off the Marthas Vineyard lightship.

The last seen of them by their shipmates was when they were struggling feebly in the heavy seas as the vessel was going down.

They were the last to leave the ship and before they leaped into the water all hope of launching a boat was gone.

BAKERS STRIKE IN CAMBRIDGE PLANT

About 300 bakers employed by the Cambridge bakery of the Ward Baking Company struck at midnight, as part of a nation-wide strike ordered by the International Union against the firm in an effort to force an agreement on wages and working conditions.

SEAMEN HERE THREATENED TO TIE UP PORT

Boston shipping men arrived at their offices today uncertain as to whether they would face a walkout of all union seamen and a complete tie-up of coast-wise steamers before nightfall.

Officials of the Seamen's Union refused to make any prediction as to the developments. They were emphatic in declaring no strike had been ordered, but admitted the men had been urged to take matters into their own hands if the demands of the International Seamen's Union for wage increases and new working conditions are not met. Some 1,500 men in deck and engine room departments are concerned here.

New York and every other port of the country today faces a similar situation.

The wage scale demanded, according to owners, is $15 a month higher than now paid by Shipping Board and private owners, and an eight-hour day in port and three-watch system is also demanded.

Owners who recently increased pay to the Shipping Board level, declare the new demands would be ruinous to the American Merchant Marine and that they are supported by the Shipping Board in their stand.

TORTURE OF BOY FROM BOSTON REVEALED

Tallahassee, Fla., May 1.—Investigation of the brutal and inhuman treatment of Paul Revere White, a white youth of Boston, Mass., which nearly resulted in his death while a prisoner in a convict camp in this State, was begun by the legislative inquiry Committee today.

White's case is the outstanding feature of the charges of brutality to convicts in the three camps formerly operated by State Senator Knabb. The boy was sent to one of the camps from High Springs by a justice of the peace as a vagrant last Winter.

Gov. Hardee

Prison inspectors found him in February with hands and feet poisoned from the muck of swamps and badly in need of medical attention after having been terribly whipped because he could not do the work of a negro laborer.

PENNED IN OUTHOUSE.

The boy was quartered in an outhouse without bedsheets or covering.

Reports of Prison Inspector Thomas and other records dating back to last September, on the Knabb Camps, told of repeated instances of prisoners being brutally whipped and otherwise mistreated, being denied any meat in the camp ration for more than a week at a time, going without bread for days, lacking a single change of clothing, unsanitary quarters, prisoners having the appearance of going without a bath for three months at a time, being forced to work when sick and unable to do any labor, being whipped for not working when in this condition, and other forms of abuse.

ASKS OUSTING OF JUDGE.

Knabb, the reports show, made repeated promises to improve conditions in his camps that were not fulfilled and finally a month ago was called before Governor Hardee and Commissioner McCrae, with the result that his leases were terminated.

Governor Hardee recommended to the Senate the dismissal from office of County Judge Willis, of Leon County, on charges of malfeasance and drunkenness growing out of the investigation of the death of Martin Tabert in the Putnam Lumber Company camp.

MONROE POLICY 'OWNED' BY U. S.

Santiago, Chile, May 1 (By the Associated Press)—The unwillingness of the United States to have the Monroe Doctrine incorporated in a Pan-American treaty because the North American Republic has maintained and will continue to maintain the doctrine as its own policy, has been made clear by Henry P. Fletcher, head of the United States delegation to the Pan-American conference.

The question arose in the political committee of the conference.

Mr. Fletcher declared the Monroe Doctrine is not a regional understanding, but is "the unilateral national policy of the United States." He intimated the decision as to when the doctrine was applicable lay for this reason with the United States.

Although collapse of negotiations for a limitation of naval armaments has caused a strained feeling in the Argentine, Brazilian and Chilean delegations, optimism is expressed that there will ultimately be an amicable settlement.

SEIZE 15 MEN IN GIRL'S DEATH; ONLY 1 HELD

New York, May 1.—A constant stream of sobbing women and frightened children knelt beside the dimly lighted casket of Josephine Bruno, eight, victim of a fiendish murder.

Scores of playmates and school companions poured into the house at No. 192 Prospect street, Brooklyn, in the cellar of which the girl's mutilated body was found Sunday morning.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at St. Michael's Roman Catholic Church.

Meanwhile, a score of detectives, under Captain John J. Sullivan, had been interviewing various men.

FIFTEEN MEN QUIZZED.

Fifteen men have been questioned. Only one was detained, and police said they had been unable to connect him with the case.

This man was Joseph Showcase, about thirty-five. He was found loitering near the scene of the crime.

Showcase, like others questioned, was confronted with the body in Josephine's home. He showed no change of demeanor.

Showcase, a drug addict, was kept near the casket an hour. But he stuck to his story that he had no connection with the slaying.

CROWD SURGES AROUND.

As each suspect was brought to the house a crowd of irate men and women, surged around, intent on wreaking vengeance if the prisoner proved to be the slayer.

The autopsy report, made known yesterday, established that the girl had been atrociously attacked. Death was due to the crushing of her skull against a chopping block.

SETTLE ROW OVER PASTOR CURTIS

The bitter controversy between the First Presbyterian Church of Brookline and the Boston Presbytery which has existed for more than two years because of the Rev. Edwin Curtis, the pastor, alleged to have blessed a salad and baptized a dog, is expected to end shortly.

A committee representing the parish and the presbytery have been in conference for more than a month relative to a reconciliation. This now appears to be a certainty.

Rev. Edwin Curtis

Mr. Curtis has resigned his pastorate and the church is seeking a new pastor, who must come with the sanction of the presbytery, according to the canons of the church.

FATHER O'FLANAGAN SEIZED IN SYDNEY

Sydney, Australia, May 1.—Three "envoys of the Irish Republic"—Father Michael O'Flanagan, John J. O'Kelly and their colleague, Clancy—are free under bail following their arrest on charges of seditious activities. They were arrested as Father O'Flanagan was about to make a speech before a crowd which hooted the police as they were led away. The trio are accused of attempting to incite disaffection against the Irish Free State government.

ELECTRIC GRIP HOLDS COUPLE PRISONERS

Worcester, May 1.—Held fast in the grip of an electric current from a pump installed to remove water from their cellar, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew W. Peterson both received burns which may prove fatal.

Peterson went to the cellar to adjust the electric motor when his cellar was flooded in the storm. His wife heard his cries. When she went to his rescue the electric current gripped and held her fast to the body of her husband.

Their twenty-five-year-old daughter, Victoria, missing her mother, found both her parents unconscious on the wet floor, with sparks shooting from the motor.

EX-MESSENGER BOY COMPANY'S MANAGER

Worcester, May 1. — Warren N. Anthony, who arose from messenger boy to assistant manager of the Worcester office of the Western Union Telegraph Company, has been promoted to the district commercial managership in charge of thirty-two offices in Maine and New Hampshire. Manager G. R. Burnham, of the Fitchburg office, will succeed him in Worcester.

POISON VICTIM ASKS HUSBAND TO RETURN

Because, she said, her husband deserted her when she refused to give up her employment, Mrs. Louise Hatfield, 23 years old, of No. 200 Northampton street, South End, attempted suicide by drinking iodine at her home.

She was removed to the City Hospital after other tenants of the house summoned a physician. Her name was placed on the danger list.

Both she and her husband had been employed in the same factory for some time. Recently the husband, Edmund Hatfield, demanded that she quit her work and remain at home.

When she refused to comply, she says he packed up his belongings and left her. He is now living at No. 80 Munroe street.

"I shall be glad to live if my husband will return to me. I would change to do as he wishes if he will come back," declares the young wife.

Causes for Neuritis Pain

Old Prescription Proves Very Effective

THE steady, excruciating ache of Neuritis that penetrates to the very bone, or that other form that feels like a "crick in the back," yields very readily to ordinary treatments. Neuritis is really inflammation of the nerves. Sometimes more than one set of nerves is afflicted—this is called multiple Neuritis and is apt to prove quickly fatal.

Because Neuritis is a nerve disease it usually yields very quickly to the quieting soothing effect of that old prescription dispensed in drug stores for nearly 30 years under the name of Orangeine. One or two powders is enough for most cases.

TODAY I AM REAL WELL

So Writes Woman After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Jamestown, N. Y.—"I was nervous, easily excited and discouraged and had no ambition. Part of the time I was not able to sit up as I suffered with pains in my back and with weakness. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, both the liquid and tablet forms, and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash for inflammation. Today I am real well and run a rooming house and do the work. I recommend your medicine to every woman who complains, and you may use my letter to help any one else. I am passing through the Change of Life now and I keep the Vegetable Compound in the house, ready to take when I feel the need of it."—Mrs. ALICE D. DAVIS, 202 W. Second St., Jamestown, N. Y.

Often some slight derangement may cause a general upset condition of the whole system, indicated by such symptoms as nervousness, backache, lack of ambition and general weakness.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will be found a splendid medicine for such troubles. In many cases it has removed the cause of the trouble.

BROCKTON SON AND MOTHER REUNITED AFTER 20-YEAR SEARCH

ORPHAN ASYLUM MYSTERY SOLVED BY LETTER

Brockton, May 1.—Edwin Patterson, well-known resident of Brockton Heights, and the mother he has sought for 20 years are today reunited.

Success crowned his long search when a letter from Mrs. Nellie Ballou of Hopedale, informed him she was his missing mother and had in turn been seeking him for many years.

Patterson, left in an orphan asylum, when a baby, has made a business success here. When a boy he came to the home of Mrs. Sarah Snow, Rockland street, and was given a good education.

He had practically given up hope of establishing his parentage when the letter came. Greatly overcome he left immediately for Hopedale.

"Though it may seem strange to you everything will be explained," he was assured in the message.

MOVE TO ABOLISH N. Y. GRADE CROSSINGS

Albany, N. Y., May 1 (By International News Service)—Governor Smith in a message to the Legislature today urged an appropriation to eliminate dangerous grade crossings throughout the State.

"The State has a fixed and definite policy with regard to their elimination," said Governor Smith, "one half the cost being borne by the railroad company, one-quarter by the locality and one-quarter by the State. Of recent years no appropriation has been made for the State's share and until it is, the locality or the railroad can do nothing. I, therefore, suggest that provisions be made by appropriation of sufficient funds to encourage the work of elimination to continue."

Society Aids Charity Rummage Sale, Betty Alden Reports

By BETTY ALDEN.

THE one-time Eleanor Higginson, now Mrs. George Lyman, Jr., along with such matrons as Mesdames Malcolm Lang, E. Preble Motley, L. Cushing Goodhue and Gilbert King are running a rummage sale to be held tomorrow. Horticultural Hall is the place, and Denison House the beneficiary.

Two younger daughters of the Francis Lee Higginsons will have charge of the clothes tables, while others will be stationed behind the counters for toys, china, furniture shoes and hats. A special feature will be the sale of coffee and Oriental sweets at a table in charge of a group of Syrian women.

ROBERT WINSOR was of the Boston group arriving recently at the Greenbrier, White Sulphur Springs.

JUST back from a visit to the "wild and woolly" is Mrs. "Cush" Hamlen—her visiting cards read Mrs. Robert Cushing Hamlen. The former Catherine Ames Royce has been out in Little Rock, Arkansas, for about three weeks as the guest of the Joseph Hamlens (Martha Thorndike.)

It was just a year ago last June that the daughter of the Frederick P. Royces of Dedham became the bride of young Hamlen. Shortly after the couple sailed abroad, making their home Dover-way upon their return from the other side.

Mr. Hamlen, by the way, was of the Boston men going over to New York for the bachelors' dinner which Junius Richards gave last Saturday at the Harvard Club. "Cush" Hamlen and Francis Brooks—who will be of the ushers' corps—as well as William Prescott of Beacon, who will be the best man, are all Harvard '15 classmates of the groom. The latter's marriage to Miss Marie R. Thayer of New York takes place on June 2.

THE Tom Gannetts (Dorothy Draper) and the Paul Hamlens are among the most recent to join the Boston colony at Hot Springs, where they are on their annual Spring sojourn of about three weeks.

Mrs. William M. Shedden and Miss Elin Snelling, also of Boston, are of those spending much of their time on the courts there. Miss Snelling will return North about the 7th of May with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rodman Paul Snelling, when the family will go to their Summer place at Beverly Farms.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM P. HOMANS (Edith Parkman) are receiving congratulations upon the birth of a tiny daughter, born at Phillips House. Mrs. Homans is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Parkman and a sister of Miss Penelope Parkman, president of the Vincent Club. Mr. and Mrs. Homans, whose country place is in Ponkapog, have a town house at No. 83 Myrtle street, on Beacon Hill, which the Reggy Fosters (Francis Hoar) occupied last year for the first Winter in Boston.

Mrs. Robert Cushing Hamlen (Catherine Ames Royce) has returned from a visit with the Joseph Hamlens (Martha Thorndike) at the latters' home in Little Rock, Arkansas.

GERMANS OFFER FRANCE MUTUAL PEACE PACT

By Universal Service.

Berlin, May 1.—Germany holds out the olive branch to France in the form of a mutual peace pact to endure for three generations, in the new German reparations offer which goes to the Allies tonight.

This proposition, originally advanced by the Socialists, has been taken up by the Cuno Cabinet after much deliberation. The Cabinet has finally passed upon the note.

Thirty billions is the "present value" in the reparations offered, but with the interest this can be read to mean between thirty-five and forty billion marks.

Doubt is expressed, even in German circles, that the offer of the German railways, with their enormous deficits, will be acceptable as security for international loans, but it is believed that this offer will open the way for other securities.

Both the British and Italian governments, through their Ambassadors here, have been persistently pressing for a new offer. Now Berlin feels these governments morally obligated to use all their influence to obtain consideration of the offer in Paris. It also hopes Washington will add its weight.

The belief prevails here that the offer may at least open the way for some form of settlement.

SAVE WIFE AND CREW LASHED TO RIGGING

South Gouldsboro, Me., May 1.—The captain's wife and the crew lashed to her rigging, the three-masted schooner, Frank Brainard, of Portland, bound for Philadelphia with a load of laths, in command of Captain Stevens, was blown from Otter Cliffs to the Foss Ledge, off Iron Round Island, and then to Jordan's Island, where she stuck off Winter Harbor.

All persons aboard were rescued.

BOY FALLS 30 FEET AND BREAKS HIS RIBS

Harold Hannan, No. 381 Pearl street, Cambridge, suffered serious internal injuries and several fractured ribs when he fell thirty feet from a second-story window in his home, where he was playing. He was picked up by a passing motorist and rushed to the Cambridge City Hospital. The accident was witnessed by the boy's mother.

SKELETON OF HAZING VICTIM IS FOUND

Chicago, May 1.—A skeleton found partly buried in the sand under a pier on the Michigan lake front in Evanston, fashionable North Shore suburb, was identified as that of Leighton Mount, Northwestern University freshman, who disappeared in September, 1921, after a class rush.

Mrs. J. L. Mount, mother of the youth for whom a nation-wide search was made, identified a belt buckle, initialed "L. M.," and bits of clothing as those of her son.

From the skeleton the bones of both arms and hands and one foot are missing.

Young Mount vanished from his classes in the midst of a spirited controversy over the evils of hazing. His disappearance came on the heels of a sensation surrounding the rescue of Arthur P. Persinger, who was bound head downward, to a piling in the lake.

It was said in some quarters that Persinger had been forgotten in the confusion of class fighting, although Northwestern University officials issued statements protesting that Persinger had not been hazed, and that Mount had not been dealt with seriously.

With the bones found was said to have been a rotted piece of rope similar to that used in tying student-prisoners in the class rush preceding Mount's disappearance.

The pier is walled in on three sides and police said that precluded the possibility that the body might have been washed to its resting place by the lake waters.

Last week Louis Aubere, Northwestern University student, was killed in a motor accident which was said to have been attendant upon a class fight. Several other youths were injured in the same smash.

TONS OF CLOTHING FOR THE NEAR EAST

A very generous response to the appeal of the National Near East Relief Committee for cast-off Winter clothing, to be used by American relief workers in Asia Minor and Greece, was recorded throughout Greater Boston.

At the central depository, the Paine Furniture Company, several tons of clothing and shoes were received, much of it sent in in small bundles.

The fire and police stations, which have been designated to receive clothing, also made a large collection in the total.

COUNCIL DEFEATS HUB TRAFFIC BILL

Proposed restriction of heavy automobile traffic on Washington, Boylston and Tremont streets between 11 o'clock in the morning and 5 o'clock in the afternoon was defeated by a 6-3 vote in the City Council.

300 CAMBRIDGE RIDERS IN BIG BICYCLE RUN

Three hundred Cambridge riders will take part in the Boston American's fourth annual bicycle carnival next Sunday afternoon. They will ride under the leadership of Harry Katz, whose shop at No. 712 Massachusetts avenue is the rendezvous of many cyclists in the University City.

These cyclists will assemble at Mr. Katz's place of business shortly after 1 p. m. and will ride in formation to Copley square, Boston, the point from which the big parade will start at 2 p. m.

Many young children are being entered in the contests which will take place at Franklin Field following the parade. The youngest child entered in the toy vehicle class is two-year-old Leo J. Dunphy of No. 211 M street, South Boston.

Other young children who will compete in an effort to win one of the six fine prizes are Freddie C. Brunton, five years, No. 105 Queensbury street, Boston; Ernest Gerkovitz, six years, No. 20 Kerwin street; David Skolnick, four years, No. 49 Fayston street, Roxbury; Sheridan Libby, four years, No. 1532 North Shore road, Revere; Leonard Luchner, five years, No. 21 Browning avenue, Dorchester; Stephen Silverman, five years, No. 129 Crawford street, Roxbury; Theodore Silverman, three years, No. 129 Crawford street, Roxbury; Edward J. One of the most interesting entries is that of Francis W. Boates, a one-legged rider of Neponset street, Canton. He expects to ride the entire six miles from Copley square to Franklin Field.

Another class has been added for the bicycle contests at Franklin Field. This new class will be riders who wish to wear costumes. The prizes in this class will be awarded according to the merit of the costumes. Funny costumes as well as artistic ones may be worn.

2 CHARLESTOWN GIRLS VANISH FROM HOME

Two Charlestown girls, twelve and fourteen years old, wearing long dresses and heavily lip-sticked and rouged to appear older, are missing from their homes.

The girls, who disappeared on Saturday last are Jessie McGinnis (twelve) of No. 266 Main street, Charlestown, and Mary Lively, fourteen, of No. 30 Bunker Hill street, Charlestown.

Two girls, resembling the runaways, were seen at Revere Beach, Saturday. Although made up as much older, the youth of the pair was apparent, the police said.

Mrs. Lively, mother of Mary, declared that she has employed a private detective to supplement the police search. The detective reported Pauline's place in their whereabouts.

"Both my daughter and her chum are merely stubborn children and were lured away by the gayeties they believed Revere Beach held for them," Mrs. Lively said. "I believe they are visiting with friends in a suburb of Boston. Both girls attend grammar school and often played truant."

The McGinnis girl is described as four feet, two inches tall, light curly-haired and light haired. Mary Lively is somewhat taller and is medium complexioned and has dark brown hair.

Grandma loves HER CUP of COFFEE

"Breakfast wouldn't be breakfast," she often says, "without my cup of Coffee."

And as she pours it, steamin' hot, into a blue-edged cup (a cherished relic of her first set of dishes) the flicker of a smile lights up her kindly face.

What memories for Grandma in a cup of Coffee!

Perhaps she is thinking of her first breakfast with John. (How good the Coffee was on their honeymoon!) Or, of later breakfasts amid the prattle of little children. (Why, it seems only yesterday that she cuddled John, Jr., on her knee as she sipped her breakfast cup of Coffee!)

Grandma is seventy now—although she does not look it—and she has gone far along the Pathway of Life. But there has not been a morning in fifty years when that steamin' cup of Coffee has not helped to make life more enjoyable.

Truly—there is warmth and good cheer in a wholesome cup of Coffee. And the thousands upon thousands of hale and hearty grandmothers who drink it are proof that there is good health in it, too!

SIX RULES FOR MAKING BETTER COFFEE

1—Keep your Coffee fresh
2—Measure carefully
3—Use grounds only once
4—Don't boil your Coffee
5—Serve at once
6—Scour the Coffee-pot

'THE MONSTER' SUPREME AS THRILLER

By NICHOLAS YOUNG

IF there is any comfort to be gained sitting through an evening of palpitation spread with "The Monster" it is the fact that no matter what happens in the area of dramatic shockers the worst is over—passed and gone forever.

It was hard to tell whether last night's audience at the Plymouth was enjoying itself or suffering, but a fair estimate of what was taking place in the boxes indicated that the balconites were suffering in plain misery, while the pit was treating itself to a good hash.

Mixed emotions have taken possession of audiences before, but is doubtful if any simple dramatic performance in Boston and even coaxed such a varied assortment of hysterical nuthouse from a human assemblage.

STARTS PULSE RACING.

The season has brought forward many theatrical thrillers, but "The Monster" will probably go into history as the supreme shocker of the current run nerve testers. As a contribution to dramatic literature, "The Monster" will never get out of the first class, but as a play to put into tender nerves and start the pulse racing it does stand quite apart from anything heard or seen of notice for some time. If one may judge the value of a play by the terrifying results of its staging, "The Monster" is entitled to a place at the top of the list.

There was continued evidence throughout the three acts that the play was written for no other purpose than to unfrizzle the nerves. Ring or possibly Rupert Hughes, Crane Wilbur, who found his job. He both as the author of the play and one of the actors, has unquestionably gained his objective, although it must be said that he thrilled more as an author than as the hero of his own terrifying drama. His maidest heroics were altogether too tame for the situations he had built for himself.

FARCICAL ELEMENTS.

Of course, there was comedy relief—otherwise many ladies at the balconies would have been carried unconscious from the theatre. Frank McCormack, in the rôle of a timid, garrulous sleuth, performed a man's sized job in this respect and almost turned the play into a farce.

You could call "The Monster" a farce without putting much of a strain on your imagination. It might be termed a real comedy possible point in dramatic ethics to inject so much lively comedy into calmly premeditated murder, with the victim still not full dead.

In any event, you will accept "The Monster" in one of two ways—as roaring comedy or nerve-racking drama. It is no play for weak hearts or tender nerves. One glow ing spot in the performance was the fine interpretation given to the rôle of the mysterious Dr. Zielo by Howard Lang. He deserved a better fate. Suzanne Caubet played the only feminine rôle acceptably.

Whatever you do, take along smelling salts when you see "The Monster."

"HIPPITY HOP" THE GAYETY'S NEW SHOW

"Hippity Hop" opened with matinee and evening audiences at the Gayety Theatre yesterday as one of the best burlesque revues the season has produced. "Shorty" MacAllister and Harry T. Shadwick, or "Shad" Ray non as he is called, are the chief comedians. Their natural bent for comedy is made all the funnier by the contrasting top and bottom between the low pasted MacAllister and the tall Simpson. Their effect of "long and short" was the real pair for many an extra touch of fun.

All the principals and the chorus—a total of nearly fifty nevertheless—worked as a unit to put the show "Hippity Hop" together. The comedy is particularly well-balanced and musical and dancing talent as well.

"POWDER PUFF" GIRLS AT THE OLD HOWARD

"Powder Puff Follies, a burlesque organization of more than usual merit, with a galaxy of burlesque stars that fairly sparkled with fun pace throughout the entire show, opened at the Old Howard yesterday. The comedians, Eddie Dale and Mickie Markwood are not excelled in burlesque. In fact they provide a fund of original amusement that keeps the house in an uproar of delight. "A Day in Society" served to open the flood light of fun of the "high brow" element and the "lower ten" also came in for a wealth of sparkling comedy.

Apart from the Arlesque, Manager C. E. Lothrop provided a top notch vaudeville bill, with picture features added.

Benefit at Plymouth

John W. Lyons, manager, and George McCarthy and Richard Hamilton, treasurers of the Plymouth Theatre, will be tendered a testimonial benefit with the performance Monday night next, May 7, of "The Monster," through the courtesy of the Messrs. Shubert and Joseph M. Gaites.

'GO-GETTER' IS A THRILLING PICTURE

The big feature of the bill at Loew's Orpheum yesterday was the Connecticut phenomy. "The Go-Getter," which moved a thrilling love to playgoers and will be remembered as one of the most engaging pictures of the season. The photoplay was adapted from a Peter B. Kyne story that has been hailed by critics as one of the best short stories of the generation. In screen form "The Go-Getter" is one of the shows that made the original story an improvement, in fact a great deal of added color has been put into the film version. All through a convalescence in strict interpretation "The Go-Getter" could easily be classed as a thriller of the type recommended from Arabian nights. The strong cast, headed by T. Roy Barnes and Seena Owens, gave the picture an active strength of characterization.

Paul Whiteman's "Romance of Rhythm Orchestra," under the direction of the youthful Alex Hyde, scored off the vaudeville honors. These marvelous musicians emit a concert of rare quality. There were also news and comedy reels.

SHEFFIELD WRITES AND PLAYS COMEDY

"Very Bright Green," a rollicking comedy from the pen of Philip Sheffield, the juvenile man of the Somerville Players, scored a distinctive triumph yesterday at the Somerville Theatre, where it was given its first performance on any stage. The leading character was played by Mr. Sheffield. Peggy Shanon, as Paula, seconded the leading comedian role and gave a thorough interpretation to an important part.

State Ballroom

The regular dansant at the State Ballroom will take place this evening. These events, which are held regularly every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings, have become popular with discriminating dancers. The orchestra, with Lambert Brothers in charge, provides music.

Orvitt-Murphy Benefit

The opening performance of the return engagement of "Molly Darling" at the Tremont Theatre next Monday will be given as a testimonial to Frank D. Orvitt and William H. Murphy, of the theatre's box office staff.

Coming Plays

The Moscow Art Theatre will begin its engagement at the Majestic Theatre next Monday, opening with Tolstoy's "Czar Fyodor Ivanovich." The engagement will be limited to two weeks. The other plays to be presented are "The Lower Depths," "The Cherry Orchard" and "The Three Sisters."

"Molly Darling" is to play a return engagement at the Tremont Theatre beginning next Monday. Jack Donahue is the featured comedian.

* * *

Tommy (Bozo) Snyder, leading "Follies of the Day," will move into the Gayety Theatre next Monday for an indefinite engagement.

KEITH'S OFFERS LEVIATHAN ORCHESTRA

Hearing the steamship Leviathan orchestra at Keith's makes one forfet that the prohobition ban extends to our ships on the high seas. The orchestra program was of popular music rendered in true Paul Whiteman fashion. It was enlivened by clever comedy, interpolated by a good vocalist and filled out by a remarkable bit of stage illusion, the musicians playing on the deck of the liner with the sea slipping by.

The Fairbanks Twins were as pretty and as pleasing as ever in The Two Little Blue Girls," in which their singing and dancing showed to advantage. In the hoop-skirt costumes of their grea-grandmothers they were particularly entrancing. Richard Keene ably supported them.

The other acts via with the headliners for approval. Ruth and Irene Fiter, youthful stars from Broadway, led off with original dances that were good. "Montana," the cowboy banjoist, revealed real artistry on that instrument.

"Just Out of Knickers," a comedy playlet showing the male of the species in all his conceits of expertness with and understanding of the other half of the species was deliciously funny.

Will Burns and Ed Lynn, comedy singers and dancers, provided more fun. "Kate" Elinore and "Sam" Williams drew a gale of laughter in their travel version of "Wanted a Cook," and Tom Smith, assisted by Larry Newman, rounded out the comedy features.

Gasps from the audience in the thrilling acrobatic act of the "Four Casting Stars" must have pleased them as much as the applause.

BRILLIANT PROGRAM AT STATE THEATRE

When a program includes such names as Rex Beach, Thomas Meighan and James Whitcomb Riley, to say nothing of those dear titles "The Ne'er Do Well," and "An Old Sweetheart of Mine," superlatives are almost necessary, as you discovered in the program at Loew's State Theatre, yesterday. The photoplay, "The Ne'er Do Well," adapted from Rex Beach's famous novel of like name with Thomas Meighan in the stellar rôle, was the last word in screened romance and adventure. Mr. Meighan has never been seen to better advantage. The other feature, "An Old Sweetheart of Mine," based upon the poem by James Whitcomb Riley, was one to warm the heart of every lover of that poet's charming verse. A new comedy and the latest news pictorial were also shown.

"SUN SHOWERS" HERE FOR EXTENDED RUN

Harry Delf and "Sun Showers" arrived at the Wilbur last evening and began an engagement that has every indication of remaining well into the Summer. Mr. Delf has a multiple role in this merry musical affair, for he not only plays the leading comedy part, but is also the author of the book and lyrics and the composer of the music. Mr. Delf was given a cordial reception last evening. "Sun Showers" will be reviewed in Wednesday's Boston American.

CASINO NOW ON SUMMER SCHEDULE

Waldron's Casino is "all set" for the Summer That was the friendly opinion of matinee and evening audiences yesterday which saw the opening performances of the big double show—Jimmie Cooper (himself) and His Beauty Revue, and, as an additional feature, the colored revue, "Runnin' Wild, A Study in Darkomedy." A double company of seventy black and white entertainers put on this dual production, giving so much varied entertainment that it seems almost impossible, in recalling all the scenes and numbers, that so much program could have been jammed into the regular performance period.

Moving pictures, even, are added to round out the three-in-one continuous program. Record business is anticipated.

The show opened with Jimmie Cooper and His Beauty Revue. In this, the white part of the production, Cooper led a coterie of classy comedians, clever actresses and a score of handsome young chorusites through merry paces.

After an intermission, came the colored revue, "Runnin' Wild," which is the jazziest kind of a Broadway. Daisy Martin sang "Blues" as they should be sung and danced with verve, and Bessie De Saussaure scored with an Oriental dance movement and later showed herself equally at home in buck and wing. Betty Burroughs and her 'bathing beauties' contributed an eye-filling interlude.

Tomorrow night there will be an extra midnight performance following the regular evening show.

CAR WINNER TO BE NAMED THURSDAY

The winner of the Overland touring car offered by the management of the Boston Theatre for the correct identification of fifty movie stars, will be announced from the stage Thursday evening and the car presented to the winner by Charles S. O'Conner, chairman of the committee, who examined the lists and made the awards.

'SINNERS' GIVEN AT ST. JAMES

The Boston Stock Company at the St. James Theatre added to its laurels in the presentation of Owen Davis' four-act drama "Sinners," which is the offering this week at the popular Back Bay playhouse.

The play deals with the rescue of an inconceivably innocent-minded country girl from the snares and pitfalls of New York.

Adelyn Bushnell, in the rôle of Mary Horton, the lovely heroine, made the most of a difficult rôle. Walter Gilbert as Bob Merrick, portrayed a tailor's dummy sort of man whom nobody could animate.

Mark Kent, as Willie Morgan, the wealthy old rounder, achieved new triumphs, and Lucille Adams as Polly Cary, the young woman of the party, scored a great success. Others in the cast are Viola Roach, Houston, Richards, Harold Chase, Maris Lalloz, Anna Laying and Edward Darney.

Universal Style

Beautiful in design, elegant in finish; perfect in proportions, the clean, simple lines of the Universal style sections will appeal to even the most esthetic taste. Here is an example of pure decoration, by just the repetition of regular sections. Everything is symmetrical, the idea of simplicity being carried out to perfection. Nothing florid or over-decorated is seen in this or any of the Globe-Wernicke styles. They cling tenaciously to the idea of good taste and consequently fit harmoniously in every decorative scheme.

MARRIED 43 YEARS, NOW ASKS DIVORCE

Portland, Me., May 1.—Mrs. Laura E. Whitney, sixty-one years old, of Freyburg, married for forty-three years, and the mother of six children, five of whom are living, brought suit for divorce before Justice Lauren M. Sanborn in Superior Court here. She charges her husband, William Henry Whitney, sixty-eight years old, with desertion dating from May 1, 1918.

SUGAR INJUNCTION ADJOURNS EXCHANGE

New York, May 1.—The New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange was adjourned until May 7, following news of the government's application for a temporary injunction to restrain raw sugar futures trading. The plea of counsel for the exchange for a postponement of the hearing for one week, until Chief Counsel John W. Davis, could be present, was denied.

HUNGER STRIKE WOMEN FREED IN ERIN

Dublin, May 1 (By International News Service).—All the women prisoners who have been on hunger strike were released by the Free State authorities today except Mary MacSwiney.

Miss MacSwiney is a sister of the late Terence MacSwiney, Lord Mayor of Cork, who died on a hunger strike in Brixton Prison, London.

"Jim" Larkin, deported from the United States, utterly flabbergasted a crowd that had welcomed him to Ireland when he declared he would start a war for the Irish Republic "though every man in Ireland fell in the fight."

Larkin first attacked the Irish Labor Party, then England and finally the United States. The latter he described as being first a new empire in the West, then a Free State, then its people became soldiers, and finally city police.

Never in the history of the Dublin Stock Exchange was so much business carried out. The boom followed the inspired announcement from official quarters that the Free State cabinet has decided not to negotiate with De Valera on his latest proposals, as the "Republican movement has completely broken down."

The reason for the sudden burst of enthusiasm is ascribed to the fact that the public believes De Valera's proclamation is evidence of his defeat.

Although the Free State government failed to answer De Valera's offer for an armistice and peace, reports received showed a big decrease in Republican violence since noon yesterday. Free State military authorities are continuing their normal activities, rounding up Republicans, particularly in western counties.

RALPH NORDSTROM.

City Marshal John Parker of Gloucester, in a letter to General A. W. Brewster, commander of the First Corps Area, calls for the arrest of Private Edmund Rideout of Fort Revere on a charge of murder in the death of Private Ralph Nordstrom of Gloucester. The marshal does not believe that Nordstrom was attempting to escape, but that Rideout shot him for personal reasons. The marshal asserted in his letter that Rideout could not possibly have fired the six shots from a distance of twenty feet at Nordstrom if the latter were running as claimed and hit him on both sides of the body as he did.

OIL AND GAS CUT AS STANDARD FIGHTS RIVALS

New York, May 1.—A struggle for domination between opposing elements in the petroleum industry is seen by Wall street, the New York World says today, with the Standard Oil interests and a few other big refineries aligned against independent companies operating chiefly in the Mid Continent field. The total financing strength of the Standard oil group is given as $592,000,000 and the Independents as $483,240,000.

The offensive, according to the paper, which was behind the general smash in prices on the New York Stock Exchange, has been seen by the street for three weeks. The objective, it is charged, is the wrecking of the independents and the eventual control of the Mid-Continental field by the Standard Oil interests and their allies.

"Recently gasoline prices have been subject to several cuts, always initiated by the Standard Oil companies and followed by the independents," the article says. "These cuts appear purely artificial to Wall Street, for the reason that, while consumption was increased enormously this year, Mexican production has continued to slump and the total supply of gasoline available is relatively lower than last year.

"It was reported that the independents probably would take their case to the Department of Justice, claiming that Standard Oil, despite its dissolution, was still in a position to strangle competition and that its present attack on the independents constituted a violation of the Sherman Act."

Four Little Grahams and How They Grew!

THEY live in Rochester, New York, the four little Grahams, at 3 Bradburn St., with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Gorden Graham. Mary is six, Margaret five, Anna four, and Helen three years old—regular stair steps and every one husky as the next one.

"These four healthy and happy girls have all been fed on Eagle Brand and nothing else," writes their mother.

Mary, the eldest, was a breast-fed baby until she was about five weeks old. Then they found that she was not getting sufficient food.

"When I called the doctor," Mrs. Graham continues, "he at once put her on Borden's Eagle Brand Milk, for there was no use losing time trying different foods. He said 'Eagle Brand will agree with any baby and give her a good start'."

From then on Mary thrived and developed naturally and normally. And Mrs. Graham, finding that Eagle Brand had succeeded with one baby, used it with all of her others.

The four little Grahams are growing up with vigor and health that is every child's birthright. Modern psychologists are now finding out that the first few years of the child's life are the formative years—which will influence to a great extent the entire life of the individual.

Early health is of utmost importance because mental development and character-building are so closely allied to health. If you want your children to be healthy and strong all through this formative period, you cannot begin too early. As in the case of the Graham children, permanent health results from a good beginning.

* * * *

Nothing is better for your baby than mother's milk. But if you cannot nurse him, start him on Eagle Brand. Begin as early as you can to make your child strong and healthy.

Eagle Brand is more used than all of the other infant foods put together. It agrees with so many babies because it is easy to digest. Eagle Brand is pure cow's milk combined with sugar. The special process by which it is made breaks down the indigestible casein in the milk. Eagle Brand has vitamins too—those vital factors which are now considered to be essential to proper growth. Probably a million mothers have already discovered Eagle Brand for themselves and raised healthy children on it. Many doctors recommend it in difficult feeding cases, or when a mother is far from the ordinary conveniences of life, or when she must travel with her babies.

With Eagle Brand you need never run the risk of changing the baby's food. It won't sour in the unopened cans—you need not keep ice even. You can buy it in quantity, carry it about easily, prepare it in a moment, and buy it wherever you live. Eagle Brand can also be given as a beverage after the child has passed the bottle-feeding stage. For the same qualities which have made Eagle Brand the standard baby food for sixty-five successful years, also make it a health-builder and a nourishing food-beverage for the older child. If you start your baby on Eagle Brand, keep him on it.

Baby's Welfare is a splendid guide for young mothers. Want a free copy? Write for it now while you think of it. The Borden Company, 52 Borden Building, New York.

Your Children Have Millions of Enemies and but One Protection—Cleanliness

The Health Doctor

Mothers know dirt for what it is—and fear it.

They will not tolerate dirty schools, dirty streets, dirty homes or dirty children.

Lifebuoy Health Soap is probably the most widely used soap in the world because mothers appreciate its scientific protection against the dangers of dirt.

Mothers know that Lifebuoy lather goes down deep into every pore, and removes impurities. They know that Lifebuoy keeps the skin soft, pliable and glowing with health—that it is bland, pure and soothing to tenderest skin—even that of a baby.

Street dust ground into bare knees is always dangerous.

HOW has mankind been freed from the terrible plagues which used to sweep over the world, half depopulating entire nations?

By just one thing—cleanliness.

There would be little sickness in an absolutely clean world. Soap has probably done more than anything else to guard health.

But even now your children are constantly exposed to dangerous infections. A bruised knee—any scratch—may develop blood poisoning if not protected from dirt. Why is it that every contagion takes its heaviest toll from children? Why do measles, scarlet fever, influenza and other serious diseases spread like wildfire among the young?

It is because too many children are not kept clean. One dirty child is a menace to a whole classroom.

Dirt is always dangerous. Street dust contains the germs of almost every known disease. Some playmates of your children may live where there is contagious sickness.

What can you mothers—you health doctors—do about it?

Keep your children scientifically, antiseptically clean.

The danger largely disappears if they thoroughly purify hands and face three times a day with the wonderful lather of Lifebuoy Soap, frequently shampoo and bathe with this remarkable health soap.

Lifebuoy is not only as pure and bland as any soap ever made and highly beneficial to the skin—but it contains a great health element. Its rich, creamy lather carries deep into the pores an antiseptic which combats the impurities ever present, clears out the pores and leaves the skin soft, vibrant with health, cleansed of all odor—and safe.

Lifebuoy keeps skin always soft

Skin regularly cleansed with Lifebuoy is always soft and pliant because Lifebuoy contains no free alkali. Its chief elements are the rich, healthful oils of palm-fruit and cocoanuts—the purest and most soothing vegetable oils used in soap making.

The wholesome odor of Lifebuoy vanishes in a few seconds—the protection remains.

Lifebuoy is a scientific health protection and a skin conditioner and beautifier. In order to have it always ready at every place where there is running water it is a good idea to buy several cakes at a time. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

DOCTOR ISSUES STATEMENT IN EWART CASE

Dr. Charles Malone of No. 46 St. John street, Jamaica Plain, has issued the following statement concerning the Fred E. Ewart case:

"Regarding recent newspaper stories about Mr. Ewart, who was taken back to the Boston State Hospital a few days ago, it is only fair to Mr. Ewart's family to state that Mr. Ewart caused them great distress and inconvenience, so much so that every member of the family had to leave his home prior to his commitment in 1921.

"It is also only fair to Dr. Corlier and myself to say that Mr. Ewart was examined in a most thorough manner by Dr. Corlier and myself and was pronounced insane. Quick diagnosis was confirmed by the mental expert at the Boston State Hospital.

"Most unjust attacks were made in the articles published against the Boston State Hospital, which is noted for its humane treatment of its unfortunate inmates. The Boston State Hospital stands at the head of all public insane institutions in the world and is humane and efficient in the care of the mentally ill.

"Why a member of the bar should cause such annoyance and tie up a citizen's property on the word of a paroled insane man is more than I can tell."

Beware False Advisers
Shaking Down the Ticker
A Good Offer
Two More Commandments

—By Arthur Brisbane—

PRESIDENT HARDING Do you notice the New York World's eagerness to have you go into the World Court? You remember that the World in 1920 was not eager to have you elected. They applaud your talk in favor of the World Court and push you toward it because they believe and know that it is another name for the League of Nations.

YOUR FRIENDS wonder whether the World, that failed to beat you by opposing you in 1920, is to have the pleasure of beating you this time by applauding, and pushing you over toward Woodrow Wilson's League of Nations.

NOTHING IS more disturbing than a little earthquake tremor. It is not so much what happens during the little shake. It's your nervousness wondering what's coming next.

They had their little earthquake in Wall Street yesterday. Railway, steels, motors, oils shivered like calf's foot jelly, and the country's stock exchanges went to bed expecting bad dreams. No one knows just what it means. And nobody knows the meaning of the various "explanations" written in Wall Street lingo.

But this is accurate. Don't gamble if you value sound sleep.

GERMANY WILL offer thirty thousand million gold marks and "security against war," if France will get out of the Ruhr.

"Mike," said Mr. Field to Mr. Webber, "I offered him five thousand dollars for his dog."

"But we ain't got five thousand dollars," replied "Mike."

"No," said Mr. Field, "but ain't it a good offer."

THE CHURCH OF ENGLAND substitutes a duodecalogue of the old ten Commandments. The two new Commandments are:

Eleven: Love God with all thy heart.

Twelve: Love thy neighbor as thyself.

There is more than enough cut out of the old Commandments to make room for the two new ones, and the cutting seems to have been done along lines of modern criticism. They have taken out "In six days the Lord made heaven and earth, and rested the seventh day and hallowed it." That's a change in favor of modern theories on geology and evolution.

THEY HAVE also taken out "For I the Lord thy God am a jealous God and visiting the sins of the fathers upon the children even unto the third and fourth generations." This agrees with the modern opinion that a supreme being, which is capable of regulating billions of suns, comets and nebulae planets through infinite time and space, would not feel jealousy nor punish innocent unborn children.

MANY OLD FASHIONED people will resent these changes. They resented not long ago the use of anesthetics to make people unconscious for surgery. They said the Lord wanted man to suffer, and chloroform was interfering with His plans. Scotch and English Protestants for a long time rejected quinine as an ungodly remedy, because it was a Catholic discovery. We gain wisdom slowly.

A GIRL eight years old is found murdered. The conditions horribly revolting, and a man suspected is compelled by the police to sit for hours beside the child's dead body. "If he knows anything, that ought to make him confess" is the police theory.

Not a sound theory yet. A man capable of committing the crime would be capable of looking at the body, unmoved, as the suspected man did yesterday.

BUT WAIT a few days. Let the criminal's superstitious fear of the unknown work upon him. Give him plenty of indigestible food, let him dream of devils with sharp claws dragging him down. Then show him the body, and he may talk.

THE FOURTEEN YEAR-OLD daughter of a University of Missouri professor, frightened by a negro, identified as her assailant a janitor of the college. That man, protesting his innocence, was lynched by a mob surrounded by students, male and female, although it is not shown that any student actually took physical part in the lynching.

THE INTERESTING part is that when the girl's father begged the mob to obey the law, he was threatened. In his book on the mob, the late Professor Shaler, of Harvard, says that a convention of clergymen, under the right conditions, could be changed into a lynching crowd. North or South, East or West makes little difference. While one mob was busy at Columbia, Mo., another mob, with difficulty, was kept from a lynching in New York. Like Mrs. O'Grady, and the colonel's lady, crowds are much the same under similar conditions.

STINNES has bought another newspaper. He is the millionaire Napoleon of Germany, fighting with money instead of men: factories instead of forts. He is wiser than Napoleon, who suppressed newspapers, saying that if he allowed them liberty his rule would not last thirty days. Stinnes says, "I will own the newspapers and they will make my rule last longer."

THE SUPREME COURT decides that all ships, ours included, may sell liquor three miles off our coast. But no ship can bring liquor, even sealed in bond, into our ports.

The solution may be a moveable bar hoisted overboard by a derrick and left at a floating storage warehouse, three miles out, by each ship arriving. Going East, the moveable bar would be hoisted on deck again, and all hands would proceed happy. A chance for an inventive genius to make a living.

STORIES OF BOSTON TOWN

By Jo Swerling

ANNA EVA FAY IS READY TO MOVE TO THE MAUSOLEUM IN Wyoming which houses the body of her son. Her shroud, as old wedding dress, is ready, and this week the undertaker will move out the old rosewood piano and make it into a casket. Anna Eva looks forward eagerly to her journey.

OBITUARY?

Anna Eva Fay prepares for a journey. The first phase of the trip will be very simple. Only a few miles, from Anna Eva's present home in Melrose Highlands to a marble mansion in Wyoming. The mausoleum is prepared. It already has one tenant—the son of Anna Eva Fay, who has been dead to the world for many years, but lives in the heart of Anna Eva Fay—lives so surely, so persistently, so poignantly that she is ready and eager to obey the call she expects at any moment.

Do you remember Anna Eva Fay? If you don't, she will not be offended, for she has smothered her ego and knows that it doesn't really matter. But it will be a pity if you have forgotten, for once Anna Eva was the sensation of many continents.

The psychic phenomena, which bewilders while it intrigues Sir A. Conan Doyle and other adventurers in spiritualism, brings a gentle smile to Anna Eva's lips. It's old stuff with her. She invented most of it. Before I was born Anna Eva Fay was thrilling the public with her black magic. Her scrap book is a revelation. In Russia, China, Japan, Italy, Sweden—in every country on this earth—she performed her black magic, startled the natives with her mystic cabinet, held seances in which tables lifted themselves into the air.

She might have usurped the place of Rasputin, the Monk, in the Court of the Czar, but Rasputin was a court sorceress. It was almost a royal command, but Anna Eva declined the honor. She preferred the Keith circuit. Not so much honor, but more dough.

All the other mediums started where she left off. Her house in Melrose Highlands, where she takes her place in the local society as Mrs. D. H. Pingree, is a museum of rare triumphs. In cabinets in every room of the large house are hundreds of relics, mementoes of tours in far-off lands.

In the music room is a large piano, three centuries old, but made of rosewood as fine that it has resisted the years. The keys of this piano are made of mother of pearl and when Anna runs her fingers across them the notes sound clear and vibrant.

Last week the local undertaker called with his assistant. The assistant took the various measurements of the piano. The chief took measurements of Anna Eva. This week the piano will be removed and [illegible] Anna Eva will be buried in it.

Heart Is Young, but Body Is Old

Anna Eva's face is young, her heart is young, but her body is old. She is tired of it. How old it is only God knows. In 1875 Anna Eva Fay was a name to conjure with. That was 48 years ago.

"I am very glad to know that I am soon to go," she said. "It is not a premonition, you know. It's a fact. A year ago I fell ill. The world knew nothing about it. I was pronounced dead. I have already made the journey. That is why I await the end joyously. I know it is only the beginning. I came back a year ago. There was unfinished business. But now I am ready.

"You may [illegible] but I'm a little bit off. But [illegible] matter. All my life I have demonstrated the futility of the physical senses. Some called me charlatan. I have never explained my gifts. What's the use? I am content to believe me. But there are more things on heaven and earth than we dream of in our philosophy. I have been serene and I count the days until I can make the journey from which there is no return trip. And I am so glad there is no return trip.

"No, I cannot tell you about it. People would only call me a faker. Besides it has been told. Swedenborg made the journey and came back. Swedenborg told the story."

She spoke of the piano. Her fingers caressed over the mother-of-pearl keys. She played a few notes from Chopin's Funeral March. From the corner of the room, Yocko, the white Scotch terrier, listened with his ears cocked.

Was it an optical delusion? Or did Yocko nod his head gravely?

Mother Accuses Son of Trespass

NEWLYWED IS BARRED FROM HOME

Own Parent Relents in Court, However, and Everybody Is Happy Again

Young Emery Peterson thinks it is tough to have his mother and step father charge him with trespassing on their home, where he has been living, just because he married.

His mother, formerly Mrs. Ida Peterson, took a second husband, Otto Nielsen, a few months ago. The Nielsens live at No. 32 Saratoga street, East Boston, and Emery Peterson lived in harmony with them.

But on Patriots' Day Emery married Police St. Croix [illegible] at N. 301 Princeton street. She returned to her mother's post and Emery went home, but he [illegible] was to make.

REFUSES TO LEAVE HOME.

Mother thereupon said, according to Emery, that since he had married he could leave home and live with his bride. He told her that, as soon as he and his bride had saved enough [illegible] to pay the wages they would set up a home. He refused to leave his mother's and step father's home.

Emery's mother and step-father made complaint against him for trespassing on their home. The actual complaint was signed by Nielsen.

MOTHER IS SORRY NOW.

Emery was in East Boston Court today. His mother was on hand but Nielson, the complainant, failed to appear. Mrs. Nielson said she was sorry she had brought Emery into court. She did not wish any mark against his good name.

"You should have thought of that," said Judge Brown, "before you caused any complaint to issue."

But the judge dismissed the complaint, lack of prosecution. Emery will now try to get enough furniture together to make a new home for himself and his bride.

$10,000 OPIUM OUTFIT SEIZED IN RAID

"ROLLING A PILL" ILLUSTRATED

Police seized the most elaborate opium outfit ever discovered in Boston in a raid at No. 75 Beach street. Besides thousands of dollars worth of gum opium, packed in small boxes valued at $1,000 each, a large amount was packed in smaller containers for retail distribution. Elaborate pipes and cooking lamps were included in the seizure. Sergeant Thomas F. Harvey is illustrating how a "pill" is prepared for "cooking." In court Lee Sung, sixty years old, was jailed for a year for possession of this outfit.

MRS. PRICE TO FIGHT DIVORCE

Describes Back Bay Husband as "Angel Outside, but Devil at Home"

Jennie L. Price, whose husband is suing for divorce on grounds of cruelty, abuse and desertion, today asked the court for alimony pending trial of the suit, which she will contest.

"A man who was an angel outside but a devil at home," was the characterization she made of John L. Price, who has a residence in the Back Bay district and one at Ashland, with a cousin, Mrs. Jessie P. White.

Price alleges his wife deserted him May 30, 1919. He seeks permanent custody of six children, whose ages range from five to eighteen. They now live with their mother at No. 34 Eutaw street, East Boston.

"My husband wants his divorce so he can marry Miss Smith," said Mrs. Price, who is supporting her family by work in a department store. That's why I defeated from [illegible] I [illegible] to file a counter suit. Then he can't marry for two years.

"The children stick with me, in spite of a court order of long ago awarding them to him. He never cared come for them. I used to feel sorry [illegible] they didn't like their father but not after he grew rough with them.

"With the help of the three oldest, I have maintained our home for years. When John Price and I first married it was I who provided the house. It was mortgaged and he failed to keep up the payments, so I lost it.

"We married in 1901 and he was making $24 a week, good pay then. He used to give me $7, even after the children came, and retain $17 a week for his own use outside."

DEMPSEY AND KEARNS PICK JOHNSON TO BEAT WILLARD

CHAMP SAYS WESTERN STAR IS REAL COMER

The Sporting American has requested opinions from prominent men in the boxing game on the Floyd Johnson-Jess Willard fight for the benefit of the Milk Fund at the Yankee [illegible] May 12. This is the first:

By JACK KEARNS,
Manager of Jack Dempsey, World's Heavyweight Champion.

When the Johnson-Willard match was first announced I was inclined to the belief that if Willard could get in condition he would whip the young Iowan. [illegible] With Fred Fulton I have come to the conclusion that Floyd has a strong chance of taking the former champion.

I didn't see the Johnson-Fulton fight, but the result convinces me that Johnson is the making of a great fighter. He has that rarest of qualities in a big boxer—true gameness. All he needs now is boxing.

The fact that he failed to knock out Fulton means nothing. Fulton has had a world of experience and he was convinced he had a raw hand in Johnson.

When Fulton thinks he has a novice in front of him he is one of the most dangerous men in the ring.

I thought his experience might prove too much [illegible] must remember that Fulton has been going along for ten years and the old experience often offsets anything a youngster may have.

Carrying the chance of losing the match with Willard into the ring with him, Johnson must have been under the mental weight that makes his victory all the more impressive to me.

Fulton More Dangerous Than Willard in Ring

Willard is stouter-hearted than Fulton. There is no doubt of that. But when [illegible] Johnson has not had as much punishment than Willard.

Therefore, if Johnson was able to take all Fulton had and keep shoving on, I don't see how Willard can hurt him. Willard at his best didn't harm Frank Moran a great deal, and [illegible] Moran.

[illegible] Johnson [illegible] of Allentown [illegible] Moran.

[illegible] Johnson [illegible] Jess Willard [illegible] dozen others not so touch, and he has come down in front every time.

Coast Fans Coming to Attend Big Boat

[illegible] Johnson [illegible] over the Willard [illegible] The Juarez [illegible] and San Pedro [illegible] a record.

[illegible] likely to beat Willard, basing his opinion on Johnson's showing against Fulton. Dempsey has always told me Johnson is a game, promising kid, with plenty to learn, but eager to learn it.

He said that from the time he worked with Johnson before the latter's fight with Dale Morris [illegible] told me Johnson would [illegible] a prediction I was inclined to doubt.

PADDY OWENS IS AFTER FORD

[illegible] of Cambridge, one [illegible] the most promising pugilistic lightweights in New England, has been training the past week, and would like a chance to test his skill with Henry Ford or prove to Tommy Nee that he is still his master.

[illegible] is one of the world's leading [illegible] Julian recently proved his class when he conquered Johnny Dundee in a ten-session affair at Mechanics Building.

[illegible] manager of tomorrow night's card will be in line for New York bookings. Tex Rickard wants to pit Julian against Johnny Dundee in a return match, while Tiplitz may land a mill with Mickey Walker if he gains the victory.

It will be Julian's first start since his quarrel with Dundee. The Brockton youth got into all kinds of difficulties following that bout. He didn't think Jack Burns was a big league manager and so tried to form an alliance with Tony Faulkner. [illegible] withdrew from a bout with Tiplitz which had been booked by Burns.

This caused the Boxing Commission to suspend the Brockton youth. Tony finally adjusted his differences with Burns, was reinstated by the commission and agreed to go through with the Tiplitz match.

Julian has been training for the past month at Brockton and is confident that he will smash his way to a decisive victory tomorrow night. As he is a rugged, two-handed fighter and as strong as the proverbial lion, Tony believes he will show to better advantage against Tiplitz than he did against Dundee, when he won nine out of the ten rounds.

Tiplitz has always been a big Boston winner. He has walloped all of the local opposition he has met and knows of no reason why he should not be able to add Julian to his list of victims.

There will also be three eight-round bouts.

SHEVLIN WINS IN EVERY ROUND WITH COWBOY

By JACK CONWAY.

Cowboy Padgett, brave Colorado citizen, would be displaying excellent judgment if he enlists the aid of a fleet polo pony and a lariat provided he ever battles Eddie Shevlin again.

Padgett may have been rugged enough to win a draw with Dave Shade at Galveston, Texas, but he [illegible] a few steps [illegible] the ring [illegible] Shevlin. The New England welterweight champion won each of the ten rounds of his frolic with Padgett at the opening of the Arena A. C.'s season at the Boston Arena.

The cowboy is strong, aggressive and courageous. Against a fighter like Young Kloby he would look like a million dollars, as he would crowd in the centre of the ring and swap punches. It is a different story when he is opposed by a master boxer like Shevlin, who picks off punches in the air, steps [illegible] of wife aethes, protects himself at all times [illegible] close quarters, and [illegible] to the head and body with the same easy grace and amazing skill.

Jack Britton is the only welterweight of recent years who has surpassed Shevlin as a scientific boxer. Like Britton, Shevlin can deal out heavy punishment when it suits his fancy. He proved to the satisfaction of Padgett that he can punch.

Most Any Other Fighter Would Have Gone Down

Most any other fighter than Colorado Iron Man would have gone down under the heavy cannonading. He would merely push his jaw forward, grit his teeth and battle as if a kingdom was at stake.

Possibly the cowboy didn't use very good judgment. But he was game, which is more than one can say about a flock of warriors who are traveling under Class A rating.

The next time Padgett shows here he will be pitted against somebody who is not such a marvelous boxer as Shevlin. Put the cowboy in the ring with a rough, two handed sawyer and you will think you have a corral of unbroken colts.

Hambone Kelly Proves He Still Has Wallop

Hambone Kelly [illegible] Southern [illegible] Powers of New York, [illegible] known as Lefty [illegible] all the biffing.

Kelly appeared in perfect condition. Apparently he has been abiding by some of the rules of Manager Johnny McGrath. [illegible] twenty-eight hire. Hambone [illegible] settled down [illegible] Powers who have never [illegible] illustrious son [illegible] and that Hambone is a southpaw and no boxer.

Referee Jimmy Walsh counted ten before Powers struggled to his feet. Naturally the only thing for Powers to do under the circumstances was to accept the count and cool off. Hambone, Powers, [illegible] to stand up, made a bluff about desiring to get socked on the chin by another left hand wallop. He was finally persuaded to save up his strength for future battles.

Johnny Herman Wins in Rapid-Fire Quarrel

Johnny Herman of Allentown, Pa., beared Jack Thomas of the West End in a fast slam-round. Will Thomas was leading up to the time an old wound was opened under one of his eyes. The flow of blood nearly handicapped his work and Herman was able to win the last two rounds by wide margins.

Neddo Flanagan of Malden won over Whitey Allen of Hyde Park after eight rounds of heavy punching. His [illegible] was [illegible] Jesse Bell [illegible]

Eddie Shevlin and Manager Billy Henderson are now asking: "Where is Dave Shade?"

* * *

These welterweight aces will probably clash again early in the Summer. And when they do there will be quite a large number of well posted gentlemen who will back Shevlin to win. Shade's recent operation won't add power to his punches nor speed to his nimble limbs.

BARNEY NOLAN TO FACE HARVARD FRESHMEN

By FRED C. LANE

Barney Nolan, recently restored to the Commerce High baseball team, will make his debut against the Harvard Freshman team tomorrow at Soldiers Field. Coach Flemming was much impressed with the [illegible] of the lad [illegible] and intends to send him against the stiffest team on the Commerce schedule.

Picking the Crimson for [illegible] Nolan [illegible] Newton [illegible] Nolan [illegible] Nolan is the hardest [illegible] a real shape to beat the Crimson [illegible] Cambridge have proved themselves real players.

Caulkins at Second Base Has Strengthened Team

Guy Caulkins is back at second base for the Back Bay school and he has strengthened the infield play and spirit of the nine. Caulkins is [illegible] of holding his own with the best in scholastic circles. In the [illegible] Caulkins has been with the team, his work about the [illegible] work gives evidence he [illegible] a leader and fiber for [illegible] more than [illegible] Nolan.

The hotter High is the opponent for today's game and Walpole street the scene of the activities. Commerce will do well to win two of the three games scheduled for the week.

Tomorrow is a fertay and a hard [illegible] to whip. They have two experienced pitchers in Lucas and Whitmore, and a fast working infield. This contest is a league game and important.

Lynn English and Revere Will Play

Lynn English High, leading in the North Shore League, and Revere High, runner up, meet this afternoon on Curtis Park Playground, Revere, in a game that means much to both.

At the present rate of speed, Lynn English is bound to carry off the honors. It has the best nine in the North Shore circuit and in the opinion of Lynn fans, one of the best in New England.

Coach Sexton has banded together a combination that can hit. Every player on the team is over the 200 mark when it comes to making a stiff job for opposing pitchers.

Coach Bob O'Keefe will rely upon Clark to hold Lynn to a small score. He and Kolnes are the only boys on the squad who can curve a ball. The nine is sorely in need of a catcher. At the present, a young star who lacks weight and who is unable to throw to the bases is doing his best to fill up the gap that has so crippled the nine.

Coach Fred Carey takes his English High team to Lowell to meet the Lowell High 8 bead nine on their [illegible] Lowell is noted for its [illegible] town game for English this year and the result will be awaited with interest by English backers.

FREDDY DUFFY TO HOLD SMOKE TALK

Freddy Duffy, oldtime ring star, is now managing the baseball team of Our Lady of Lourdes church, Jamaica Plain. As a part of his athletic program, Duffy has arranged a smoke talk for Friday night. It will be held at the quarters of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Jamaica Plain.

There will be plenty of talent on hand to enliven festivities. Besides the local ring stars, Duffy has made arrangements for the appearance of some of the best of our New England boxers. There will also be entertainers.

Any boxer desiring to show should get into communication with Freddy Duffy.

Kotsonaros recently had George Chira beaten to his knees when the Italian champion gained a questionable victory by hurling his opponent out of the ring.

Kotsonaros has agreed to make 190 pounds for Kilonis. This the experts say, will give Kilonis an advantage. Kilonis is one of the roughest grapplers in the business. He says he has a few new tricks to try on Kotsonaros.

RID YOURSELF OF LAZINESS; HEALTH DEPENDS ON EXERCISE

You know you need more exercise, but you are too lazy to take it.

Day after day it is the same routine, which makes little demand upon your physical system, and you become [illegible] grouchy, flabby—too fat or too thin.

It requires some effort on your part to get the exercise you need. But can you not rearrange the condition you are in, and help yourself?

The least little exercise [illegible] you will feel better. Like a tonic [illegible] when you do anything requiring more effort than your [illegible] work.

Would you rather be fat and uncomfortable and lazy, than normal in weight and comfortable and active?

Most men have to make a choice and so do most women. Which condition do you choose?

You admire and envy the hearty, active and good-natured person, but you are unwilling to do what the majority of persons must do to keep in good condition physically.

Better rid yourself of your laziness before you wake up and find it too late.

Shocking the Public

Public Now Prefers Vegetable Laxatives

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin affords prompt relief in a natural way

THE public is constantly becoming more discriminating in its choice of things. Those subject to constipation try to learn what makes them constipated, and then avoid it. If constipation persists in spite of all their efforts they take the mildest, easily tolerated laxative obtainable, and not a drastic physic that upsets them for days afterwards. As over 10 million bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin are sold a year, a large proportion of the people of this country must believe that this mild vegetable compound is the proper remedy for them, and so it is. No need to take salt waters and powders that dry up the blood; coal-tar drugs to curdle form that produce pain eruptions, or calomel that salivates. These drugs are "last resources"—over-effective, weakening and griping.

The best constipation remedy is the one that moves the bowels without shock to your system, and such a one is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is a vegetable compound of Egyptian senna and pepsin with pleasant-tasting aromatics, and has been satisfactorily sold for 30 years. Unlike the harsher physics it does not produce a habit, and increased doses are not required; in fact, it so trains the stomach muscles that in time medicines of all kinds can be dispensed with.

Many take a teaspoonful of Syrup Pepsin once a week as a health safeguard. Others use it only when required, as, for example, Mrs. J. W. Borroughs of Little Rock, Ark., who finds it equally valuable for herself and the children, and Mr. Linn S. Coats of Watsonville, Cal., whose family uses it regularly. Try Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin in constipation, biliousness, piles, headaches, sallow complexion, and to break up fevers and colds. A generous-size bottle can be had at any drug store, and it costs only about a cent a dose!

ANY FAMILY MAY TRY IT FREE

Thousands of parents are asking themselves "Where can I find a trustworthy laxative that anyone in the family can use when constipated?" I urge you to try Syrup Pepsin. I will gladly prepare a liberal free sample bottle, sufficient for an adequate test. Write me where to send it. Address Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 512 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois. Do it now!

THE POPPY PERIL

By LAUCHLIN JAMES

An Eye-Opener Romance in Which Is Depicted the Horror of What Drugs Do to Hollywood

BEGIN THIS STORY NOW

Two days after Kerry Rowan, a noted motion picture director, had visited the offices of the District Attorney in Los Angeles Rowan is found shot to death in his home, with a bowl of poppies scattered on the floor beside him. Rowan has given much information whereby the drug evil in Hollywood might be attacked and had promised to risk death by testifying against those champagne tables, for the sake of a clean Hollywood and because of his sincere affection for a young film star. Then, seeing Ireland years earlier, where we meet Keanech Royce, just out of college who goes to China as secretary to Sir Charles Aylesmere. Here he meets Lily Waite, a "wooden china doll," but discovers Lily's father is a morphine addict and card sharp. He comes to New York, is employed in a "Far East" shop and eventually meets Carra Leyton, to whom he presents a Japanese dagger. Carra is found stabbed with the dagger in Chinatown with a deck of hop in her lap.

Poppy Adds to Its Toll

"ROYCE admitted that he had once owned a knife of similar appearance, but declared that it had been 'disposed of,' though he refused point blank to reveal the identity of the purchaser, unless compelled to do so by law." the account continued.

"He had no theory to offer as to how Miss Leyton happened to be in Chinatown and he would make no comment upon the apparently well-authenticated fact that the young woman was a drug addict.

"At the hospital it was stated that Royce had been there, asking to see Miss Leyton, and that he had been granted a brief interview with her father. When Mr. Leyton was asked concerning the nature of this interview, he confined himself to the significant reply, 'If I have anything to say about that, I'll say it later. For the moment I am concerned only with the saving of my daughter's life.'

"Whew!" breathed Callender softly when he had read the article to its conclusion. "Royce has quite within his rights in answering as he did, so far as I can see; but what a damaging implication that story makes to create. I must call him up when I get to the office."

A special delivery letter which he found awaiting on his desk saved the attorney the trouble of telephoning. It was from Royce, and authorized him to the police and authorities take in the matter.

"I will communicate with you again. In the meantime, this note will be your authority for taking charge of affairs at the shop and seeing that they go ahead just as if I were on a vacation. I have paid my Jap and told him to stay here in the apartment and keep his mouth shut until he hears from me again. Needless to say, if any specific charge is made against me I will come back and face the music. Hastily,

KENNETH ROYCE."

"Ill-considered, I fear," said Callender to himself, as he speculated on the probable effect of his client's disappearance. "Most ill-considered, and likely to produce an unfavorable impression."

Damaging Evidence

He was quite correct in his surmise. The afternoon papers gave equal prominence to the fact that Carra Leyton had died during the morning and the discovery that Royce had vanished over night. They went further than that.

They told how detectives had taken the Japanese dagger to the Far East Shop, where an agitated salesman had reluctantly identified it as one formerly on sale there, and how, when the records in the office were looked up, it was found that the weapon had been removed from stock many months before and charged to Royce's personal account.

This important circumstance having been brought to light, the clerk had endeavored to offset it, stated the papers, by saying that he believed his employer had made a present of the knife to Miss Leyton, but when the unfortunate girl's parents were questioned on this point they both denied all knowledge of such a gift.

To make matters still worse, the detectives had found out that Royce had been on Pell street himself at about the time Miss Leyton must have been struck down.

Police Intuition

With that much to go upon, the papers on the following morning predicted a "nation wide search" for the missing man and when another day passed without any steps in this direction having been taken the anti-administration journals began demanding an explanation for this seeming culpable inactivity on the part of the police. It was at this stage of the case that Royce sent a telegram to his attorney which resulted in Callender's making a visit to the office of the chief of detectives.

"I represent Kenneth Royce, he informed that official, "and he instructs me to say that he is ready to surrender himself any time you say the word."

"Tell him to forget it," replied the chief. "He was a dumn fool to run away, but we don't want him."

"The papers are making rather a point of your failure to apprehend him," said the attorney.

Customary Denials

"Let 'em rave. I just got hold of something that will shut them up." He began going through some papers in a drawer at his side, remarking as he did so. "Of course, we had to go slow on that case at first, but there was something about it that looked phony to us from the start."

"For one thing, when we got to Miss Leyton's room she had not as she'd seen that knife in a bottom drawer of the young lady's chiffonier. Good by hidden there, see Probably meant to use it sooner than she did. The old folks may have been on the trail when they said they'd never seen it, but their denying she owned it set us back about two days in our investigation.

"They decided she used dope, too, for that matter. Simply trying to cover up, you know, like most any one would.

"The wound looked to be self-inflicted and apparently she never made a sound when it happened, so we were pretty sure it was a case of attempted murder, but we had to clean the case up from every angle as long as the papers insisted it was a murder. Here"—he began to riffle off, producing a legal-looking paper from the drawer, "here's what clinched our theory. That letter came in this morning. Look it over."

The document proved to be an affidavit made by the nurse who was attending Carra Leyton at the time of her death. She swore that during the night she rallied had regained consciousness for a few moments, had recognized her parents and had begged them to forgive her for the sorrow she was causing them.

"I couldn't hear to face him again," the nurse was quoted as saying. 'I'd broken my word to him and I was afraid he had found me out. I'm sorry. I tried to quit the habit, but I couldn't."

There had been no time to take down this ante-mortem confession, stated the nurse, and only she and the girl's parents had heard it. They had hoped to keep it so, but any one about the dying statement, and, out of sympathy for them, she has kept quiet until the stories in the newspapers had made her feel it her duty to inform the hospital authorities of what she had heard. They, in turn, had had an affidavit executed and had informed the police.

The Start of a New Life

"Well, that about settles it, I should say," Callender commented, as he handed back the document. "But in justice to my client it seems to me that statement should be published."

"Oh, sure. We're going to give it out this afternoon," responded the chief. "Tell your client that he can come back at any time he wants to."

So Kenneth came back, but it was to a world which held no further interest for him. To be sure the papers printed the nurse's statement, and Mr. and Mrs. Leyton were obliged to give it reluctant confirmation, but by that time the damage had been done. The bottom having dropped out of the case, the papers naturally saw no reason for making it front page stuff any longer, and Kenneth was literally swept off, producing a legal-looking paper from the drawer, "here's what clinched our theory. That letter came in this morning. Look it over."

FOXY GRANDPA STORY

HE TELLS OF TWO OLD FRIENDS

DON'T quarrel again, children. Now kiss and make up. It's so foolish and useless to fuss with each other.

Bunny and I never quarrel. We've been friends for years and never had any disagreement between us.

One man used to call us "Damon and Pythias."

Who were Damon and Pythias? I'll tell you if you want to know.

Hundreds of years ago in the City of Syracuse, on the island of Sicily, in the Mediterranean Sea, there lived a King.

He was a bad man—a tyrant—and his name was Dionysius.

In the City of Syracuse was a good man by the name of Damon. He complained of the King's cruelty, and for that the King condemned him to death. Oh, the King was a very cruel man.

You can imagine how Damon felt and how sad he was to leave his dear wife and children.

When Damon learned of this unjust order, he went to the King and fell on his knees before him, and begged him to allow him to go to say good-bye to his family.

The King laughed scornfully, and said:

"If I let you do that, you will never return."

Damon vowed he would return immediately, but the King would not believe him.

With Damon at this time was his great friend, Pythias. His heart was breaking for Damon. He felt so sad, and he, too, wanted leave to see his wife and children. So he stepped forward and implored the King to allow Damon to go home just for a little while. But the King would not listen to him.

Finally Pythias threw himself on the ground before the cruel King and said:

"O, King, let him go—just to say good-bye. If Damon does not return I will die in his place."

This startled the King and he looked very thoughtful for a moment. Then he replied:

"All right. I shall allow him to leave, but if he does not return in six hours you shall die."

Finally, just as the six hours were up, Pythias was preparing to be executed, in rushed Damon. His horse had fallen and he had had great difficulty in keeping his word. But he had reached the palace in time.

The King was so touched by the devotion of the two friends that he pardoned Damon and said he should not die.

UNDERGROUND WATER

By GARRETT P. SERVISS

Eminent Astronomer and Authority on Subjects of Scientific Interest

"Having had a spring dug about 126 feet deep, ten or more feet in rock, I would like to know how and why the water we get from this well, and from two other springs not so deep. The 126-foot spring seems to give better water than the others. Why? should this be so?"—Theodore Zoll, Torrington, Conn."

IF the ten or more feet of rock through which your well was driven lies at the bottom of the bore, and if the bottoms of the other wells are above that rock, then their water does not come from the same supply as yours, but from a source that is separated by the floor of rock.

There is nothing surprising about that. In places where the underground strata are much bent and folded, or broken across, it often happens that water in wells not very far apart, and of about the same depth, varies in quality.

The underground world is a very wonderful place, far more complicated than most persons ever dream of its being, and its waters are among its greatest marvels. There are perhaps as many streams of water underground, never seen by man, though he frequently hits upon them in his diggings and borings, as there are on the surface. The total volume of subterranean water is enormous, and often it exists in great quantities beneath vast desert regions, where no vegetation can grow, and where the only kind of storms are sand storms.

There are places where great "sheets" of underground water flow steadily through sand, and even sandstone, at depths of many feds of feet. Under the great central plains of the western United States there are porous sandstone beds filled with water which makes its way in a generally easterly or southerly direction, at the rate of about a mile a year.

In regard to the penetration of water into the rocks, as a consequence of pressure and capillary action, it is interesting to know that almost all kinds of rock contain some water. Sandstone is often so charged with moisture that it is possible to squeeze a couple of gallons of water.

Many years ago a striking proof of the penetrability of solids was obtained when some hollow balls of thick glass sunk to a depth of several miles by United States exploring vessels were brought up after an hour's immersion filled with water, although the glass was not cracked and no holes could be seen in it with a microscope. It had been subjected to a water pressure of about 13,000 pounds to the square inch.

You may think of these things next time you drink the good water from your 126-foot well.

If you feel "out of sorts," sluggish, weary and irritable; if you lack the spirit and sparkle and the ability to do your work with the same briskness and cheerfulness that you see in others, it is probably because your organs are not generating enough vital energy.

If your blood lacks the normal amount of the elements that are necessary in the production of vital energy, it is not possible for you to feel strong, industrious and sprightly; you are bound to tire quickly, feel downcast and find it difficult to take proper interest in your work or your favorite recreations.

If you are not feeling as "fit" as you would like to, if you are in need of reinvigoration, you should take Wincarnis for a week or so. You will probably be surprised and delighted at the promptness with which this general tonic and restorative will enrich your blood, strengthen your nervous system and relieve your feeling of general debility and exhaustion. Physicians are prescribing Wincarnis because of its great virtue as a tonic and reconstructive.

ANSWER TO PICTURE PROBLEM

If the gentlemen are seated when the young woman enters she should look about for a convenient chair to sit down upon and not keep them standing unnecessarily.

FORBES' VIEWS on FINANCE

—By B. C. Forbes—

If it be true that New Yorkers rarely visit the rest of the country, it is also true that the rest of the country visits New York. Every State in the Union has had unusually responsible representatives in the metropolis during the last ten days. The two most important groups were the leading bankers of the country, who are executives of the American Bankers' Association, and publishers and editors who are members of The Associated Press.

These two classes are as well posted on general business conditions as any class in America.

How do they feel about things?

* * *

A broadly accurate reply can be given in these two words, sensibly optimistic.

Prosperity is being enjoyed in nearly all parts of the United States. Prosperity is less pronounced in wheat growing sections. Corn states have done distinctly better as the price of corn is as far above last year's level as wheat is under it. Cuts, too, have brought distinctly better prices this year. Prices obtainable for food animals have been nothing to brag about, yet they could have been worse.

The agricultural South has, of course, done unusually well under 25 cents to 28 cents cotton.

It is not quite correct, however, to speak today of the "Agricultural South." The South, as a matter of fact, is moving from the strictly agricultural towards the industrial stage of its development.

* * *

The Far West continues to progress. There the most sensational development has been the phenomenal expansion of oil production in California. Farther North along the Pacific slope the extremely important lumber industry has been doing splendidly.

* * *

Charles B. Lewis, president of the Macon Chamber of Commerce and of the Fourth National Bank, said: "Our people have learned that it is more economical to raise food crops at home than to send money West for such supplies. Diversified farming is being adopted on an active scale. More and more manufacturers are coming into Georgia, especially since hydro-electric power has become more available. Just as the freeing of the slaves was the best thing that could have happened to the South, so the necessity for developing diversified farming has proved. Much of our native labor is moving Northward, but new labor is offsetting materially so far. You know, diversified farming calls for labor than cotton production. On the whole things have been improving with us quite rapidly and the outlook is all right.

Walter Head, who is in line for the presidency of the American Bankers' Association, talked quite cheerfully about the betterment in conditions in his territory, he is president of the Omaha National Bank. Like most thoughtful students of economics, Mr. Head had become somewhat uneasy over the pace developed six weeks or two months ago. He feels that the situation is now, however, under control, and that prospects are distinctly encouraging.

"A great many people think of Detroit as reading nothing but automobiles," remarked Mr. Henry Sanger of the National Bank of Commerce of Detroit. "Whereas Detroit leads the country in quite a number of other industries. Our politics are, in fact, quite diversified. Practically all are today running on full time. The position of the automobile industry is thoroughly sound. There are no stored cars; dealers are clamoring for deliveries; all look for an unusually big demand until July 1. Ford is making 6,700 cars a day and is 200,000 behind orders.

J. H. Puelicher, president of the American Bankers' Association, who hails from Milwaukee, Wis., declares that things in the Middle West are in very good shape. But he added: "The great danger is, of course, that the present prosperity may be pushed into a period of inflation. And any inflation now would mean deflation afterward." Mr. Puelicher's special aim as head of the greatest banking association in America, is to spread sound education on economics, on agriculture, on fundamentals of citizenship and other things on which our whole national structure rests.

Washington, May 1.—The War Minerals Relief Commission has paid out $6,250,000 in satisfaction of claims filed by mining interests for development of minerals necessary to conduct the World War, it was announced. New York Stock Market Displays Better Tone After Its Initial Weakness

KELLY PICKS UP BETTER THAN 3 POINTS

After initial weakness today, a better tone was displayed in the New York stock market. Money again renewed at 5% per cent. Kelly-Springfield recovered 3⅜ at 54¾. There were numerous recoveries of around a point in the second hour.

Inability of unwilling sellers to meet the flood of margin calls sent out by brokerage houses after yesterday's sharp reaction resulted in further selling pressure at today's opening with a resultant decline in prices.

Marked heaviness was shown by a number of the independent stock motors, oils and industrial special ties.

Willys-Overland preferred dropped 2 points. Electric Storage Battery 1½ and Columbia Gas and Republic Steel, 1 each.

Sears rallied 1½.

Prices made an irregular recovery in the later dealings. Baldwin Studebaker, Stewart-Warner Speedometer, Corn Products, and U. S. Alcohol all sold 1 to 2 points above yesterday's closing prices.

Several additional weak spots developed, however. Texas Gulf Sulphur preferred dropping 2¼ points and Atlantic Refining 2.

Among the rails Lehigh Valley and Canadian Pacific showed moderate gains, while Southern Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio and Louisville & Nashville yielded fractionally to selling pressure.

Trading in foreign exchanges was light because of the holiday abroad but opening rates showed a firm tone. Demand sterling advanced ¾ of a cent, to $4.63¾, and French francs advanced 2 points, to 6.76 cents.

Wall St. Gossip

SOUTHERN Pipe Line declared a dividend of $2, payable June 1 to stock of record May 15. Three months ago dividend of $4 was declared and six months ago $2.

NEW Jersey Zinch for quarter ended March 31, reports net income of $1,865,466 after charges and taxes, against $1,038,835 in previous quarter and $1,065,101 for the same period of 1922.

YUKON Gold Co. for 1922 shows deficit of $511,162, after interest, depletion, etc., against deficit of $246,875 in 1921.

FISHER Body preferred stock has been stricken from the list.

JONES BROS. Tea has been talked of for merger with Connor Stores and Jewel Tea, but nothing tangible has appeared.

RUMOR is that Marland Oil contemplates returning the outstanding 8 per cent. bonds and increasing the dividend on the stock.

INCOME of International Paper Company for March is reported as the annual rate of $16 a share, reflecting 3 months degree the big writing off of inventory last year.

CALIFORNIA Petroleum has acted much better marketwise than most of the oils, apparently justifying brokerage house declaration that inside accumulation is under way.

GOSSIP is board of extra dividend on Corn Products in June, and starting of Crucible dividends at a $4 rate in same month.

SOME traders look for a further cut in Mid-Continent oils.

FOR New Haven in 1922 March was the only month to show a net income after charges, and net deficit for quarter a year ago was only $131,598. This year's gross of $11,288,630 set a record for March.

BUGABOO of big oil production in California appears to have been ov ..layed.

BANKS ASK MILLION TAX ABATEMENT

The First National Bank, the Shawmut National Bank and the Rockland National Bank of Roxbury have brought petitions in the Superior Court asking for the abatement of taxes, respectively, of $931,548.15, $427,450 and $22,230, assessed in 1922 on capital stock of the banks. The assessments were made under Chapter 63 of the General Laws on a basis of $291.44 a share for the First National, $175 for the Shawmut and $300 for the Rockland.

The petitioners say that the rate of taxation was $24.70 on $1,000 while was more than other monied capital was called upon to pay.

NEW SECURITIES ARE FEWER

That recent new security offerings have not been thoroughly digested is reflected in the falling down of new investment issues. New capital issues by corporations during April amounted to $274,427,000 as compared with $444,196,000 in the same month a year ago.

Hardening of money rates, combined with an oversupply of new issues indexed the lower volume of issues. Large stock dividends recently disbursed have also absorbed considerable sums of money, while the backwardness of the stock market has had an effective upon purchasers.

Perhaps 36 per cent. of new securities brought out have been for the purpose of paying bank and other loans. Since January 1 new capital issues have aggregated $1,458,746,000 compared with $1,141,331,436 in the corresponding period of 1922.

Optimism has been repeatedly expressed by me that, while we have not yet reached the saturation point in automobiles, we have passed that point in automobile companies. It would be extremely unwise for anyone to run the risk of leading investors astray by attempting to pick out the specific auto concerns which will survive, though some of them are fairly obvious.

HALT ELECTION OF MARRIED TEACHERS

Re-election of ten married women teachers was held up by Somerville School Board at a long meeting, but widowed teachers were retained.

The committee on teachers recommended no married women be given school positions hereafter; also that marriage of any female teacher be cause for her resignation. This was referred to the committee on rules.

Ninety-six ways up for re-election. Fourteen were married.

Miss Minnie S. Turner reported for the committee that all ninety-six be re-elected. Walter F. Turner, no relation to Miss Turner, moved that all except ten be re-elected, and that action on these ten, all married, be deferred until next meeting. This was voted. The ten are:

Mrs. Amelia M. Gray, Mildred E. Barney, Augusta L. Bergin, Ruth A. Maxwell, Hazel S. Ashman, Grace E. Allen, Dorothy C. Huddy, Helen M. Mason, Alice C. Mawhinney and Minnie H. Lougee.

WOUNDED VETS TO HEAR NOTED JAZZ BAND

The wounded boys at the Marine and Naval Hospitals are going to enjoy the best jazz music in the world by one of the most famous orchestras at two special Boston-American concerts this week.

The first of these concerts will be given at the Marine Hospital this afternoon at 4 o'clock, and on Thursday the music will run for the wounded boys at the Naval Hospital.

Through the courtesy of Marcus Loew and Paul Whiteman, the latter's Romance of Rhythm Orchestra, which is appearing at Loew's Orpheum this week, has been turned over to the Boston American for two concerts at the government hospitals.

There is no class of music more alluring to the boys in the military service than the snappy jazz melodies that Mr. Whiteman has done so much to popularize, and the orchestra he is donating to the American for the entertainment of wounded veterans is rated as the best organization of the kind now appearing in public.

The musicians are led by Alex Hyde, possibly the youngest musical director in the world. But he does know jazz from the first note to the last, and his ability to wrest it from his ten skilled musicians has made him a favorite with everyone who has been thrilled by his work.

The Favorite Sons

Only One Trouble. Nobody Ever Heard of Them

Copyright, 1923, Star Company

Washington politicians, it is said, are busy sorting out and polishing up "favorite sons" of various States, each to have a complimentary vote for President in the Democratic Convention, and thus head off a stampede for Ford, which is feared.

The trouble with the plan is that what the voters want in these days is somebody they know something about, somebody whose NAME, at least, they have heard. A favorite son who is nothing but a favorite son will not have very much of a chance, especially if he happens to be only HIS OWN favorite, rather than anybody else's favorite.

How many men, fit to run for President, can you mention by name? How many have really deserved that honor that you know?

Not many in a population of 110,000,000.

This Lottery Is Allowed

Foreigners Are Running It

Copyright, 1923, Star Company

Some Americans bought Belgian bonds with an interesting lottery attachment. The other day were advertised the numbers of the bonds that had drawn the lottery prizes.

The amount paid out was two million three hundred thousand dollars. Everybody that had bought a bond for a hundred dollars or less got back his money and fifteen dollars bonus. A very interesting gambling attachment.

But how does it happen that United States law, which forbids AMERICAN citizens to carry on a lottery in this country, allows FOREIGN governments to run a bond business here with a lottery attachment?

Those that got their lottery reward recently were the luckiest of the Belgian bondholders. One of these fine days, if Russia and Germany start moving, those Belgian bonds and some others from abroad will be on the bargain counter—worth about as much as Russian rubles are now. Tell that to your international banking friend who sells you the foreign bonds, takes his commission and has nothing more to lose.

Power of R. I. Senate

Why Democratic Members Were Driven to Oppose All Republican Legislation

In Rhode Island alone the legislative, the executive and the judicial functions of government, instead of being more or less effectively separated and independent one of the other, are all three concentrated in the Legislature, which not only makes the laws but controls both their interpretation and their enforcement.

In Rhode Island alone the judges from the Supreme Court down, instead of being appointed to hold office during good behavior as in Massachusetts are elected for definite terms as in many other States.

They are not only elected by the Legislature, in the first place, BUT HOLD THEIR OFFICES ON NO TENURE BUT THE WILL OF THE LEGISLATURE, WHICH CAN AT ANY TIME REMOVE THEM AND FILL THEIR PLACES WITHOUT ASSIGNING ANY REASON FOR SUPPLANTING THEM.

In Rhode Island alone the Governor is little more than a figurehead so far as the powers of administration are concerned. He can nominate administrative officers, but his nominations are subject to the approval of the Senate, which, if it fails to accept them within three days, may make appointments for itself without allowing the Governor any further voice in the matter.

This, in fact, is the universal practice of the Senate when, as has sometimes happened, the people have chosen a Governor of the party to which the majority of the Senate did not belong.

In Rhode Island alone the majority of the Senate, thus vested with absolute control of the executive functions of government in addition to the absolute veto power over legislation which Senates generally enjoy, is placed by the Constitution in a position of complete independence of the wishes of the majority of the citizens, even though that majority may be three or four to one.

Each town, however small, elects one Senator, and each city, however large, also elects one and one only, so that the city of Providence, with nearly half the population of the State, has no more representation in the Senate and no more voice in the State administration than the smallest rural town with three or four hundred votes.

In Rhode Island alone the municipal offices as well as the State administration are securely vested in a privileged minority of the citizens by a constitutional provision which allows property owners only to vote in financial town meetings and for City Councils.

If a situation so irreconcilable with any rational definition of democracy or popular self-government existed in Massachusetts we have now in the Initiative and Referendum a method by which the rule of the people could be restored, but the citizens of Rhode Island have no Initiative and Referendum, and its Constitution allows no method of amendment save by the consent of a majority of two successive Senates.

In such a strait, it is no wonder that Lieutenant-Governor Toupin and his Democratic fellow-Senators were driven to the extreme step of opposing all Republican legislation until the majority of the Senate consented to go upon record on the proposal for a constitutional convention, on the bill for election of judges by the people, on a bill to abolish the property qualification for voting and on a bill for redistricting, so that the people of Rhode Island may know who the men are who are denying them the right, which so many other States enjoy, of living under a Constitution of their own making and under rulers whom they choose and can control.

NEW ORDER OF JILTED SWAINS

BERKELEY, Cal., May 1.—And now comes the "Royal and Mystic Order of the Green Pea."

The latest secret society has been formed on the University of California campus by discarded flames.

Its object, according to George Smith, its president, is to fight the wiles of cruel co-eds who play up to men students only to cast them aside.

Hughes—The World Court

Editor Boston American:

All praise is due the Boston American in lining up public opinion against the latest trap designed by Wall street, viz., the world court. The whole snap is plainly given away by "Hairy" Hughes when he tells us that Elihu Root was the eminent American jurist called in to help fix the foundation of the court.

We fail to remember any occasion where this "eminent one" was identified with any but Wall street interests, and even the plan which he helped select was later amended by the league council. It must surely be a sweet plan required when Root's suggestions weren't altogether acceptable.

The battle you are engaged in is a hard one, but your work is very much appreciated. Keep up the good work. Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty, but is always worth while. The yoke is all prepared, but America, thank God, refuses to submit. C. J. K.

THE HELPING HAND

Do Not Inclose Stamps. Letters Will Not Be Answered Personally. No Attention Paid to Telephone Calls. No Names Are Published.

Dress and Shoes

Editor Helping Hand:

I have one black serge dress, one brown jersey blouse suitable for a girl who can wear size 36—also shoes, size 5½, but very narrow. A gray chinchilla coat for an eight-year-old girl and other things for both. Your work is wonderful and I am glad to help.

MRS. P. S. H.

ED. NOTE—Thank you. You will be put in touch with Mrs. L. McA., who is badly in need of clothes, size 36, and with Mrs. J. H., who has a girl eight in need of clothes.

Offers Stroller

Editor Helping Hand:

I would like the address of W. W. W. Also I see that Mae wants a pair of shoes. I have just what she wants, so please send her address also. I also have a stroller for someone.

MRS. M. R. Q.

ED. NOTE—The two addresses you mention and the address of Mrs. M. P., whose husband has deserted her and who asked for a stroller, will be sent you. Many thanks.

Out of Work All Winter

Editor Helping Hand:

I wonder if some of your readers could help a married man with some working clothes, size 36 or 38? I am very much in need of them. Also some shoes size 7½ or 8. I have been out of work practically all Winter and cannot afford to buy any.

A. R.

Needs Baby Clothes

Editor Helping Hand:

My husband has been out of work since last February on account of illness, and he is now looking for work. I am expecting a little stranger next month, and any clothes for a baby would be very welcome. Also pieces of outing flannel and nightgowns, size 38, for myself. Bills have gathered so that I cannot see a way to get these things. When I get better situated I will repay those who help me by helping them or others in need.

MRS. E. L. W.

Crib and Mattress

Editor Helping Hand:

Please send me Mrs. E. G. C.'s address, as I have a good iron crib, spring and mattress she can have and welcome. I am very glad to help this good work along. I also have a full-size white iron bed and spring anyone may have by calling for it. I have some pants and coats for a boy fourteen or thirteen, and some shoes for a boy five. T. L.

ED. NOTE—Mrs. E. G. C.'s address, and the address of Mrs. C. A. P., who can use the clothing, will be sent you, and your kind offer of a bed will be held for replies. Many thanks.

Clothes for Mother

Editor Helping Hand:

Will you please send me the address of the little girl who signed herself Rags, as I have a few clothes that her mother may be able to use. If you have her age, will you tell me, as I do not remember whether it was eight or thirteen. I think your Helping Hand column is a great work of humanity. MRS. J. L. M.

ED. NOTE—"Elizabeth R.", as we signed her for identification, is nine. She has several brothers and sisters, however. Her address will be sent you. Thank you.

Trunk Full of Clothes

Editor Helping Hand:

Enclosed please find a list of articles I would like very much to send to that poor family in Green River. I have these things packed in a large trunk. If the family in Green River has been taken care of, will you please place these things where they will do the most good. God bless the good old American—it has cheered many hearts this Winter. May it always know prosperity, and it always will. E. C. M.

ED. NOTE—The family in Green River has been cared for. The women's clothes will supply a great need on the part of Mrs. E. W. R., while the children's clothes will be appreciated by Mrs. A. J. E. Thank you both for the offer and your kind wishes; but it is the generous readers who deserve all that nice praise.

To Make Her Happier

Editor Helping Hand:

Will you please send me the address of the little twelve-year-old girl, H. K.? I cannot send her a little puppy, but would try in other ways off and on to make her feel happier. Think the column is just wonderful. Only wish I had lots of money and could do something generous for a good many.

MRS. M. E. M.

ED. NOTE—What seems wonderful to us is the way so many people are more interested in the happiness of others than of themselves. You will be sent her address. Thank you.

Eight Children in Need

Editor Helping Hand:

Has anyone any dresses and underclothes they would give to a needy family having eight children? Two boys, fifteen and sixteen, and six girls, ages two to twelve. Shoes would be a great help. Sickness and lack of work make it impossible to furnish these necessary garments. The mother hasn't had a suit or dress for seven years. She wears size 40 and is handy at making things over.

MRS. K. G. B.

Poor Helps Poor

Editor Helping Hand:

I have read your paper for years and think the present column great. I am poor myself, but others are a great deal worse off. As God has spared me only one out of three of our darlings, I think I can help some mother who has been more fortunate that way if less in other ways. I am enclosing a list of things I can spare. MRS. R. P.

ED. NOTE—These will be a great help to Mrs. M. W., whose address will be sent you. Thank you.

Will Give More Later

Editor Helping Hand:

I have on hand some baby clothes which I would like to give to some poor mother. I enclose a list of the things. I hope to be able to help with more later. You are doing a great work in bringing together the ones who need help and those who can help.

MRS. D. MCK.

ED. NOTE—Mrs. D. E. K., who has been left alone with two children and with another coming, will be put in touch with you Thank you.

REASONS WHY THE KAISER SHOULD BE REPORTED MAD

By Herbert Kaufman

GERMANY at last posts her score. Not counting civilian deaths from grief, shock and penury diseases, her officials announce that the great war killed 1,945,000 men, made 533,000 widows, orphaned 58,000 children and left 1,130,000 fatherless. Hernhardi and the other high priests of Weltmacht have nothing to say.

Rumor repeats that the ex-Kaiser is fast going mad. If he reads these figures they'll doubtless complete the job. Conscience and remorse must be constant companions of the recluse at Doorn.

Memory is a drainless poison cup. The once haughtiest head in Europe is now only a haunted house rife with the ghosts of past grandeurs and the mocking wraiths of thwarted ambition.

Exile has imposed a harsher sentence upon Herr Hohenzollern than any international tribunal could ever have issued against the Prussian King. Justice does not always sit in a courtroom. Her verdicts are as often delivered at sleepless bedsides. The furies do not wait upon man to act—they have a law of their own.

Lord Robert Cecil closes his evangelical tour and goes home. He feels very optimistic over his work here. Today's news doesn't explain why. Majority sentiment, judged by published opinion, is still of its 1920 mind.

Senator Lodge, party weathervane, reiterates opposition to the league and writes an exceedingly cagey letter on the World Court. A laboratory process wouldn't extract an outright endorsement from it.

Leaders of the bar are not convinced that we may wade at The Hague without subsequently swimming in deeper and more troubled waters. Young Theodore Roosevelt, with various bees in his bonnet, hasn't recanted recent campaign speeches, despite Harding-Hoover-Hughes views.

The published letters of late Ambassador Page advise his sons to forget Europe, locate the whole future of the race in new countries—chiefly ours—and assert that the continent won't be worth living on for another fifty years.

Stewing in a Witch's Broth

Ex-Ambassador Gerard, speaking at the A. N. P. A. banquet, generally confirmed Page's estimates of overseas futures. He told listening publishers that foreign intrigues "make us think that there is something peculiar to Europe which perpetuates age—long hatreds and present-day revenges and force many Americans to think that the Old World should be left to stew in its own witches' broth."

Meanwhile, America is stewing with impatience to realize pressing opportunities. Railroad incomes for March were 12 per cent. over earnings of a year ago. Things are moving—crops, ores and fabricated products can't find enough cars to carry them to destinations.

Our Breads Buttered on This Side

Prosperous citizens apparently can't find enough automobiles, either. The Packard Company's earnings for six months reached the net sum of $435,000.

Although we've more vessels than use for them, William Cramp & Sons, ship and engine builders, announce a surplus of $19 per share as against $8.89 in 1921.

The Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania declares a net income of $6,075,000, and to show that prosperity plays no favorites, the South directs attention to the Georgia Light, Power & Railways statement with $6,826,000 profits.

The Susquehanna Power Company asks the Federal Power Commission to permit the preliminary survey for a 360,000-horsepower hydro-electric plant between Philadelphia and Baltimore, which will light all the lamps and drive all the machinery within a radius of a hundred miles.

We're up and doing here and they're down and dying there.

Our bread's buttered on this side.

Carpenters Can Show 'Em

Hear the hammers—watch the beams come swinging into place and look beyond at a million plough-cutting furrows. What we accomplish all the earth can duplicate when it so chooses.

Confidence and competence say that universal troubles are self-imposed.

Trotzky compares our isolation with Russia's and explains that we stand aloof from choice, while hate and jealousy prevent the Soviets from making a successful demonstration.

Russia will some day learn what local carpenters have discovered that weight is perilously placed on weakness. The folk who rule at Moscow haven't the wisdom and experience to sustain the structure they support.

Russia must reframe her government as we now erect houses—by using unwarped stuff with extra material at the crossbeams and resting them on broad tops, instead of whittling important timbers to fit little mortise and tenon joints.

It's bad business to place reliance on least dimensions.

Confucius Offers Advice to Editors

American editors meet at Washington and form a new association. The more opinion moulders work together the less risk of sectionalism and territorial bias. On a three-thousand-mile continent viewpoints can easily become too local for national good.

Among other progressive measures a code of practice was adopted. They could, however, hardly have done better than accept this analect of Confucius for a creed.

"In order to acquire truth it is necessary to obtain a wide and extensive knowledge of what has been said and done in the worlds; critically to inquire into it, carefully to ponder over it, clearly to sift it and earnestly to carry it out."
